ROOSEVELT WON'T GO TO CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—President Roosevelt said at a press conference today he definitely would not go to Chicago to attend the Democratic convention but again he avoided every question designed to bring about a disclosure of his third term stand. Asked whether, if he did go to Chicago, he would fly, he laughed and said he thought he had a right to be insulted as the question following his statement that he would not go to the convention city, was a slur on his veracity.

African Rites for Italy's Balbo—Containing the remains of Marshal Italo Balbo, Italy's great air hero, flag-draped casket is saluted by a guard of honor as last rites for the bearded flier, killed under mysterious circumstances, were held in Tripoli, Libya. Official Italian account is that Balbo was shot down by a British plane during an air fight . . . but the British deny that their planes had anything to do with the death. Following these rites, Balbo's body was flown to Italy for burial.

MANY BRITISH DEAD IN RAID

LONDON, July 12—With R. A. F. attackers matching their German foemen raid for raid and with defense forces levying an unrelenting toll on planes attacking the British Isles, the air war of western Europe reached a new peak of intensity today.

The day's first casualty report came from northeast Scotland where it was said one bomb killed 10 persons "as far as known" and injured many others. The plane which dropped it was shot down and the crew perished in flames.

On the basis of official and unofficial reports, the tabulation of German planes shot down today in defense of the British Isles and British shipping stood in mid-afternoon as follows:

Scotland, one bomber; east coast, four bombers; south coast, one bomber; southwest coast, two planes of unspecified type.

The "all out" attack of the Nazi air force was still to come, but so widespread have been the daily assaults already that King George VI himself narrowly escaped death or injury yesterday somewhere in southern England.

Wave after wave of heavy British bombers blasted military objectives deep in Germany last night, it was reported by aviation circles in anticipation of an official outline of new British-wrought destruction.

Three British planes failed to return.

23 NAZIS SHOT DOWN

The air ministry balanced this loss, however, by announcing that fighter commands of the British defense had confirmed the loss of another German plane in yesterday's action over England, thus bringing yesterday's total of German planes destroyed to 23.

During raids yesterday on German-occupied France and the Netherlands, it was announced, one British bomber penetrated far into Germany's industrialized Ruhr valley and in broad daylight attacked oil depots.

The defenders of the British Isles started a new tabulation of German losses today with an air ministry announcement that four German bombers were blasted into the sea off the east coast this morning.

The four planes, caught by the gunsights of swift pursuit planes, were among 12 in a new attack on shipping.

In early afternoon another bomber was shot down in northeast Scotland and still another was said to have been caught in a screen of heavy anti-aircraft fire at a south coast port and brought down.

German planes crossed the south-

Britons Battle Off 3-Day Italian Siege

NAIROBI, Kenya Colony, July 12 (AP)—British defenders have staved off a three-day assault by heavy Italian forces on Moyale, strong fortified post on the Kenya-Ethiopian frontier, British headquarters said today.

Since dawn Wednesday the defenders have been holding out against small arms and artillery and though more than a thousand shells have dropped into British positions, casualties were reported comparatively light. British reinforcements are en route.

One of three Italian planes which bombed Wajer, in eastern Kenya, was shot down by British planes and a second was damaged.

Dive Bombers Rake Britain

BERLIN, July 12 (INS)—The German high command revealed today that Stuka planes—dive bombers which wrought incredible havoc in the battle of France—are being used to attack airports, piers and armament plants in England.

The use of Stukas in the incessant bombing attacks on the British Isles was taken in Berlin military quarters to mean that the final phase of pre-invasion battering has started.

These dive bombers more than anything else defeated French troops admitted, shattered French battle lines, levelled towns and blasted tank columns off the roads

British Flying Columns Blast at Italians

LONDON, July 12 (AP)—British "flying columns" of mechanized units are harrying Italian troops cut off in the forts of Capuzzo and Maddelana on the frrontier of Egypt and Italian Libya, British military informants said today.

Strong Italian columns had advanced to the frontier and momentorily pushed back British armored car patrols operating in a 60-mile zone behind the frontier.

U. S. NEWSMEN INJURED—As Italian planes drop bombs on Mersa Matruh, Egypt, Richard Mowrer of the Chicago Daily News (above), is seriously injured . . . buried in bomb debris for nearly two hours. Two other Americans, both photographers, were also hurt in the raid.

BRITISH HALT CHILD EXODUS

LONDON, July 12 (AP)—England's children probably will have to stick it out, raids or no raids, with their elders, it was declared today.

The government is reported to have postponed its scheme for removing the children to the dominions.

A well-informed source said the decision would be announced to the House of Commons next week. A "much modified" plan may be put into operation.

Shortage of vessels to convoy the children previously had been given as a possible bar to the removal plan.

Nazis Sink 4 Million Tons Ships

BERLIN, July 12 (AP)—The German high command reported today that 4,329,213 tons of "enemy merchant shipping space or shipping space useable by the enemy" have been sunk by German naval and air actions since the start of the war.

"To this figure of ships sunk must be added over 300 ships damaged primarily by the air force which in part were hit so severely that they are unusuable at present or because of necessary repairs will be unusuable for months," said the daily communique.

The total given by the high command amounts to more than half the total tonnage lost by Great Britain in the entire World War—7,830,765 tons.

The communique, giving new point to Germany's declaration of a "starvation blockade" of the British Isles, divided the sunken shipping space as of July 8 as follows:

By torpedo hits and mines, 1,920,439 tons.

By surface craft and naval means, 1,362,461 tons.

By the air force, 1,046,313 tons.

Renewed assaults on airports, harbors and war industries in southern and central England and the sinking of four merchant ships and a tanker in the English channel were marked up to the credit of German fighting planes and dive bombers.

Nine other merchant ships were reported "severely damaged."

3 BRITISH WARSHIPS HIT, ITALIANS CLAIM

ROME, July 12 (AP)—Italian warplanes set a British aircraft carrier on fire and seriously damaged two destroyers yesterday in the four-day-old Mediterranean air and naval battle, the high command reported today.

Declaring that the engagement which began July 8 "is not yet finally ended," the communique described Italian air pursuit of a British squadron of two battleships, an aircraft carrier and smaller vessels convoying five large freighters in the Malta region.

"The aircraft carrier, struck by a bomb of extremely large caliber, stopped suddenly with flames on board visible from above while several ships speeded to its aid, the communique said.

It declared that one of the escorted freighters was sunk by a bomb.

The bombardment was said to have taken place under heavy anti-aircraft fire, while the ships were steaming westward from Malta.

The high command reported that Italian planes and light columns of troops had attacked a British fortress on the Egyptian side of the Libyan frontier, destroying a tank and burning a barracks at Sidibarani and taking some prisoners.

An air bombardment of British Somaliland also was reported.

The Italians claimed to have shot down in flames four British planes from aircraft carriers. One British plane was reported down at Sidibarani and two others in Kenya.

Two Italian planes failed to return from the attack on the British warships, the communique said.

Ava Astor Renounces Title, Stuns Newport

NEWPORT, July 12—Fashionable Newport today found a lively topic of conversation in Lady Ribblesdale, first wife of the first John Jacob Astor.

But not because she was forced to give up her English title to become an American citizen again, as reported in press dispatches from New York.

Rather, because she was regarded as one American woman who had not been lured by a title at the time of her marriage to Lord Ribblesdale.

For the alliance of the handsome Lord Ribblesdale and Ava Willing Astor back in 1919 was regarded by socialites here as a love match.

Had she merely desired a title at the time, it is recalled, she could have captured one of far more importance than the one which decorated the name of her late husband.

SHIRT SLEEVE COMPANY

Dukes, both English and French, marquesses and earls, were among the small army of suitors of the beautiful American who, after her divorce from "Jack" Astor, moved to London to avoid family complications in New York and in Newport.

The repatriation of the 70-year-old belle took place in a hot crowded federal courtroom in New York, where she appeared with 250 aliens, many in shirt sleeves.

In addition to the oath of allegiance, Lady Ribblesdale was given a special oath renouncing the English title.

DIVORCED IN 1910

The grand dame of international society, mother of Vincent Astor, has been in New York since early June.

One-time famed beauty of Philadelphia, the new Mrs. Ribblesdale was divorced from Astor in 1910.

Astor later married Madeline Force, who after Astor's death became Mrs. William Dick and still later Mrs. Enzo Fiermonte.

Mother of John Jacob Astor III, Mrs. Fiermonte then divorced the one-time pugilist. She died a few months ago.

Hospital Head Dies In Hunt for Fumes

BROCKTON, July 12—Mrs. Florence Eaton Mattison, 55, proprietor of the Eaton Hospital, Centre st., dropped dead today in the hospital kitchen during excitement which followed discovery of a leak in the refrigerator.

Mrs. Mattison's mother, Mrs. Florence A. Eaton, detected the leak and told her daughter the kitchen was filling with fumes.

While Mrs. Eaton was sent to call the fire department and Mrs. Catherine North, a nurse, was despatched to notify the refrigerator company, Mrs. Mattison hurried to the kitchen.

When the other two women reached the kitchen after their calls they found the hospital proprietor dead on the floor.

Dr. Lena Copeland was summoned and said Mrs. Mattison had died of a heart attack induced by the excitement.

Nevertheless Fire Chief F. E. Dickinson, Deputy Chief John J. Murphy and a crew from Central fire station worked over the woman with an inhalator for some time.

Only one of the dozen patients in the hospital, mainly devoted to maternity cases, was affected by the fumes, Mrs. Raymond B. Hatch of Brookside ave., who became a mother seven hours earlier, being seized with a coughing spell.

She was moved to another section of the hospital, where the fumes had not seeped.

Then Mrs. North and Mrs. Mary Singleton, a sister of Mrs. Mattison, removed the new infant and the other three babies in the institution to the nearby home of Mrs. Singleton for a few hours.

Formal Separation Pact Is Signed by Dempseys

NEW YORK, July 12 (INS)—The New York Journal-American today said that a formal separation agreement has been reached between Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dempsey—the latter the former Hannah Williams—with the couple's two children to live with Miss Williams. Dempsey retains the right to visit them at any time.

Jack Dempsey

Under terms of the agreement, Miss Williams may resume her career at will, on stage, screen or in radio, but with professional night club appearances barred at Jack's insistence.

There was no cash settlement, the Journal-American said, adding:

"Instead, Jack will continue to support her and their two daughters, Joan, six, and Barbara, four, in the same style 'as of the date of separation,' which runs to $1000 a month."

Nothing in the agreement forbids either party from taking a trip to Reno, the divorce capital, but neither is planning anything more definite than the present formal separation.

JIM FARLEY SEEN QUITTING POST IF F. D. IS NOMINEE

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, July 12—Postmaster-General James A. Farley is so opposed personally to violation of the third-term tradition that he will retire as Democratic national chairman after the Democratic convention renominates President Roosevelt next week, it was learned today as convention preliminaries went into full swing.

Farley has made up his mind to refuse command of the Democratic 1940 campaign because he believes the President should be retiring to private life instead of accepting a "draft" nomination in violation of the principle laid down by George Washington. Farley is convinced, of course, that Mr. Roosevelt will take the third term nomination.

The Postmaster-General also is ready to resign his cabinet post at an early date in order to accept a prominent position in private business.

HEAD OF YANKEE TEAM

Most of his friends believe he has already lined up the presidency of the New York American League Baseball Club, a post that will go to him as soon as a group of friends complete purchase of the team from the estate of Jacob Ruppert.

Farley, incidentally, has personally informed the President of his intentions. For a while, it is said, the President felt he would persuade Farley to remain as national chairman but now is satisfied that "Genial Jim" will retire.

As a result, New Dealers say, the President has decided to ask Frank G. Walker, New York attorney and his personal friend, to take over the Democratic chairmanship.

Farley's attitude toward the coming campaign highlighted an extremely dull prelude to the convention. Farley himself was taking extraordinary measures to maintain interest in next week's proceedings.

TRIES TO STIR INTEREST

He sent out frantic apeals to prominent Democrats to come to the convention, hitting at "an unusual circumstance" to arouse their interest. Insiders said Farley was only "kidding" as the conventiog will be hand-ruled from the White House.

Meanwhile, the committees began to grind out the routine convention formula today.

The President's renomination was conceded on every side, even though he issues a statement declaring himself not a candidate and asking the convention to nominate another "liberal Democrat."

If the President takes this attitude, his advice will be disregarded because an overwnelming majority of the delegates are pledged to him.

The vice-presidential nomination may provide the only real interest in the convention. Early arrivals believe Secretary of State Hull is Mr. Roosevelt's personal choice for the second post and that he will be nominated without trouble.

ATTACK VICTIM

MRS. MAY ELLIS
Slugged by Hoodlums
Boston Evening American Photos

4 Youths Beat Wife Who Ran To Mate's Aid

Running today to aid her husband, who was being beaten by four hoodlums, an attractive 31-year-old Cambridge wife was slugged knocked down and seriously injured.

She is Mrs. May Ellis of Massachusetts ave. At Cambridge City Hospital, where she and her husband, Robert, 35, were taken to have their cuts and bruises dressed, she said she recognized some of her assailants and would swear out a warant against them in Cambridge district court.

The husband said he was attacked by the four youths when he refused one of them a cigarette.

They set upon him on Massachusetts ave., near the Ellis home.

Seeing the disturbance from a window, Mrs. Ellis sought to rescue her husband, only to be beaten herself.

The husband said he was brutally kicked by the hoodlums after he had been hammered into semi-consciousness.

Berlandi Decision Is Expected Today

Chief Justice F. Delano Putnam, in the so-called Berlandi contempt case today in municipal court, denied motions by defense counsel contending that the case was out of his jurisdiction.

Final arguments then were made by John Hanigan, counsel for Police Lieut. Harold J. Walkins, and Arthur Bickford, counsel for Angelo Berlandi, one of Hayo Tobin's secretaries.

The summation for the Commonwealth by Asst. Dist. Atty. Edward M. Sullivan followed, with a decision in the case expected from Chief Justice Putnam before the day's end.

Lieut. Walkins and Angelo Berlandi, with his brother, Alfred Berlandi, now a state prison inmate, and Carmen Giordano, are charged with contempt in an alleged conspiracy to obstruct justice.

They allegerly conspired to have Giordano "take the rap" for Alfred Berlandi in a handbag theft case on Suiday night, March 17, near the North Station.

Atty. Gabrielle Piemonte, counsel for Alfred Berland, made no final argument in the case. Giordano already had pleaded guilty, therefore his counsel, Michael Carcchia, likewise made no argument.

During introduction of closing evidence, Prosecutor Sullivan brought out that Angelo Berlandi was convicted of larceny in 1928, but no explanation of circumstances was given.

Introduction of the court record in Angelo's case surprised a crowded courtroom, for the mayoral secretary previously had testified that he had not been in court before.

Britain Bars Aliens In Vital Industries

LONDON, July 12 (AP)—The employment of aliens in several specified industries in Britain was banned today in an order issued by Sir John Anderson, home secretary.

The order, issued under Britain's wartime alien laws, prohibited aliens from working in any of the country's many defense areas and barred them from employment in munitions industries, gas, water, electricity and transport enterprises and welfare organizations associated with the fighting forces.

N. H. HAILS LEGION PARLEY

CONCORD, N. H., July 12—Greeted by flag draped streets, cheers of the populace and handshakes of old buddies, delegates and members of 80 American Legion posts settled down to business today at opening sessions of the 22nd annual State convention.

Order of events at the morning session in the city auditorium included call to order by Department Commander James W. Doon of Henniker, advancing of the colors by Sergeant-at-Arms Leo O. Vogel of Keene, invocation by the Rev. Willard W. Smith of East Jaffrey, and addresses of welcome by Mayor John W. Storrs and by George W. Conway, president of the convention corporation.

The fun makers' 40 and 8 parade tonight will proceed down South State st. to Perley, thence by Main st. to Center st., where a reviewing stand has been erected at the State House plaza. After the parade a ball will be held in the armory until 2 a. m.

Tomorrow morning's sessions will consist of reports and voting of resolutions. A luncheon for distinguished guests will be held at the Concord Country Club, and the annual banquet has been arranged for the Masonic Temple at 6:30 p. m. A vaudeville show will be held at 10:30 p. m.

Tunnel Crash Ties Up Traffic

Traffic in Sumner tunnel was tied up today by a three-car crash i nwhich the only injuries were bruises on the right hand and elbow of Mrs. Rebecca Smith, 47, of Balsam st., Dorchester.

According to police, Mrs. Smith was riding with her son, Ralph, of Nichols st., Everett, when the Smith car struck the rear of the machine ahead, operated by Charles Viano of Harlow st., Arlington.

Viano's car then collided with the next machine ahead, driven by Rudolph Hesselgren of Western ave., Lynn.

Aged Woman In 3-Story Leap

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—An elderly woman leaped from a three-story building on Washington boulevard early today, nearly six hours after she climbed to the rooftop and shouted her intention to jump.

Taken to a hospital in a critical condition, she was identified as Mrs. Anna Kroll, 55, a tenant of the building for three months.

Two police officers who chanced to go to the neighborhood discovered Mrs. Kroll on the rooftop shortly after midnight. They summoned a fire department rescue squad. Mrs. Kroll leaped when squad members ignored her threat to jump if they approached.

Irene Castle Acts Under Flashlights

CLINTON, Ct., July 12 (AP)—Nature unexpectedly gave a touch of realism to the musical show, "Shadow Play," starring Irene Castle.

A severe thunderstorm last night cut off the power at the Clinton playhouse. The show went on, however, Miss Castle entertaining an audience of 500 while ushers played a battery of flashlights on the stage for two hours.

SIX PARISHES WAIT CHANGE OF PASTORS

Parishioners in six parishes today awaited assumption by six new pastors of duties assigned them by Cardinal O'Connell. Four were appointed pastors and the others transferred from present pastorates, all to take effect Wednesday.

The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Robert P. Barry, director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau, has been appointed pastor of St. Clement's Church, Somerville and Medford, succeeding the late Fr. Thomas F. McCarthy.

The Rt. Rev. Monsignor Richard J. Quinlan, S. T. L., diocesan supervisor of parochial schools, was named pastor of St. John's Church, Winthrop. He replaces the Rev. Mark E. Madden, who resigned due to ill health and is now at St. Elizabeth's Hospital under treatment.

Other appointments were:

Rev. John P. O'Riordan, parish priest of the Blessed Sacrament Church, Walpole, to parish priest of St. Mary's Church, Winchester; Rev. Robert E. Lee, parish priest of SS. Peter and Paul's Church, South Boston, to parish priest of St. John the Evanglist, Canton; Rev. Thomas H. Markham, assistant at Sacred Heart Church, Malden, to parish priest of SS. Peter and Paul's Church, South Boston, and Rev. Bennett J. O'Brien, chaplain at Long Island Hospital, to parish priest of the Blessed Sacrament Church, Walpole.

Barge Aflame Off Squantum

Quincy firemen took to boats today to battle a blaze which swept a lumber barge off the Naval Reserve air base, Squantum.

With rowboats and towlines the firemen hauled hose through the water to one end of the burning craft. Pumps were also installed on two boats in order to throw harbor water on the flames.

The barge, bound for the air base, where new buildings are under construction, caught fire about 200 feet from its destination. Origin of the blaze was not immediately determined.

G-MEN JOIN POLICE HUNT FOR 2 BANDITS

G-men from the Boston headquarters of the Federal Bureau of Investigation joined Massachusetts and New Hampshire State troopers today in the manhunt for two bandits who since Sunday have left one dead girl and a trail of smashed cars in the wake of their headlong flight from the police.

Government agents actively engaged in the search today, it was learned, when the pair were believed to have violated a federal statute by driving a stolen auto from Beverly to Laconia, N. H.

In their fourth running gun fight within five days, the pair shot it out again and eluded local and state officers at the New Hampshire city.

PAIR HEAVILY ARMED

In a teletype warning to northeastern states, New Hampshire officials warned that the men are heavily armed and desperate. Police are certain the pair looted a sporting goods store in North Walpole, N. H., of 42 revolvers, 28 rifles and a large amount of ammunition.

The two men were described by police as criminals of the most vicious type. It was feared today they might use their stolen weapons in an orgy of brutality and murder.

First clash of the present fugitives with police occurred at Windham, N. H., at midnight Saturday after their car, stolen in Maine, hit a tree during a chase.

One of the two girls who accompanied the pair was fatally injured. She was Lucille Jodoin of Laconia. She was buried yesterday. Police believed the fugitives might have visited Laconia to witness the funeral.

An hour after the Windham crash Saturday, police learned the two had appropriated a car in North Salem, N. H. This machine was spotted near Worcester on Sunday by State Troopers Vincent F. Power of the Holden barracks, who engaged in another gun battle with the men.

ESCAPE AT MARLBORO

Again they crashed, but fled on foot. They were sighted Sunday night in another stolen auto, the property of a Worcester man, but once more escaped from police in Marlboro.

Next was reported the gun theft in New Hampshire, on Tuesday night. Yesterday, the stolen Worcester car was found abandoned on a side road in Topsfield. Its interior was bloodstained, its tire tread perfectly matched tire prints of the auto used in the looting of the Walpole gun store.

Late last night the Beverly auto was seen near Lake Winnepesaukee, N. H. Although Police Chief George N. Hubbard opened up with a blast from a sub-machine gun, the fugitives fired back and escaped again.

BETTE INSPIRED BROOKLINE GIRL TO HOLLYWOOD FAME

Signed to appear in the movies, Ruth Gilman, 20-year-old Brookline girl, today indicated she will pattern her cinematic career after Massachusetts' own Bette Davis.

Having scored many local successes in college theatricals and in summer stock, greater fame loomed for pretty Ruth Gilman of Brookline today . . . after she signed contract to appear in films. Petite, blonde and gray eyed, she's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Gilman of Pleasant st., Brookline . . . and will finish summer at Framingham playhouse before leaving for Hollywood.

Boston Evening American Photo

Ruth, who has scored many local successes as an amateur actress in Radcliffe and Harvard College theatricals, suggests the Bette Davis type herself.

Blonde, petite and gray-eyed, Miss Gilman long has idolized Bette and hopes that in the movies she may get dramatic roles similar to those played by the famous star.

News of the girl's good fortune was released at the Village Hall Playhouse in Framingham Center where, for the past two summers, she has appeared as leading lady of a summer stock company.

WINS GOLDEN CHANCE

It was her work at the Playhouse that won her her golden chance to star in the movies, the scout who signed her for 20th Century Fox films revealed.

She was appearing in Personal Appearance, in the role of Carol Arden at the Framingham theater when the 20th Century scout happened to catch the show. Miss Gilman had evolved a unique make-up for the part, when the script calling for a girl with golden hair she had oiled her own hair and sprinkled it with golden-bronzing powder to give a fetching if startling effect.

OFFERS HER CONTRACT

The scout watched her again in Fly Away Home, which is being given this week, and yesterday offered her the contract.

The Brookline girl will finish out the summer at the Playhouse and then leave for Hollywood.

Miss Gilman is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Gilman of Pleasant st., Brookline. She attended Radcliffe College, where she majored in art, and the American Academy of Dramatic Art, before joining the Framingham players.

At college she was one of the most active members of the Idlers Club, Radcliffe's dramatic society, and was frequently seen in plays staged by the Harvard Dramatic Club.

3 Waitresses Hurt in Crash

Three waitresses were injured, but not seriously, early today when an automobile crashed into a fire alarm box upright at Lancaster rd. and Massachusetts ave., Arlington Heights, sending the box and pole spinning 20 feet.

The investigation resulted in the arrest, at his home, of Charles Grecco of Pleasant st., Woburn, on charges of operating to endanger, operating while under the influence of liquor and leaving the scene of an accident after causing damage.

Police said the three waitresses, taken to Symmes Arlington Hospital by other motorists, were Margaret Finnerty, 24; Ruth Wilson, 27, and Loretta Damon, 27, all of Woburn st., Lexington.

Evicted Dad, 6 Children Get New Home

While city officials pondered over the problem of Frank Lurette, Malden World War veteran, and his family of seven, he found a new home today as wreckers began tearing down his old one.

Ordered out by the city from his duplex house on Barrett's lane, Malden, to make room for a parking lot, Laurette, until today, had sought to find a landlord who would accept his wife and six children.

Although city officials had set an Aug. 1 deadline for quitting his home, workmen started dismantling the rear of the premises.

Just as the wreckers arrived, Lurette rushed in with the good news he had found a flat on Sherman st., Malden.

The only other tenant left on the street, Mrs. Florence Grant, living alone at 53 Barrett's lane, announced she was planning to move to Danvers shortly.

Some time ago the city of Malden and the Malden Chamber of Commerce provided $117,000 to take over Barrett's lane, a dead-end street off Main st., near Malden sq., for a municipal parking area to accommodate 3000 cars.

F. D.-HULL TICKET LOOMS

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN

CHICAGO, July 12 (INS)—It's going to be a cut and dried "New Deal" convention—ticket, platform and all—according to all advance indications here today.

Delegates coming in for next week's Democratic National Convention are booming nobody seriously to oppose President Roosevelt for renomination.

New Dealers arriving from Washington are talking up a "Roosevelt and Hull" ticket. The dope is that President Roosevelt wants Secretary of State Hull as the No. 2 man on the ticket.

Now that the New Dealers are converging on Chicago, some of the "play" is being taken away from Democratic National Chairman James A. Farley. Up to now, pre-convention activities have been centered on Farley, who has been doing his best to make this an "interesting show" in spite of the outward apathy. Incoming delegates have no fight in them, and seem to be all set to play their role in a "ratifying" convention.

PLATFORM GROUP MEETS

Into the picture has come such ardent New Dealers as Secretary of Commerce Harry L. Hopkins, Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Senator Robert F. Wagner of New York. It is said that Hopkins and Ickes will be "the President's eyes" at the convention.

Neither Hopkins nor Ickes have anything like Farley's convention experience. But they see eye to eye with Mr. Roosevelt on foreign policy, and the President wants Farley to be anti-third term and he is not in sympathy with some of the President's close advisers, such as Tommy Corcoran and Ben Cohen.

WHEELER MAPS FIGHT

Sen. Wagner, as chairman of the resolutions committee, is now on the ground to see that the right kind of platform is drawn up. He has called a meeting of the committee for this afternoon for preliminary discussion.

Indications are that the plank on war relations will be based on President Roosevelt's message to Congress Wednesday. In this the President said, "We will not send our men to take part in European wars."

Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, a member of the resolutions committee, is expected to make a fight for the adoption of a vigorous anti-war, non-intervention plank.

Will Roosevelt Attend Parley? Is New Puzzle

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—"Will the President attend?" ranked next to "Will the President accept?" as the big question among early arrivals for the Democratic national convention.

An announcement that the presidential suite in the Congress Hotel had been reserved by the national committee bolstered the belief of some delegates the President plans to attend the convention. Another hint was the arrival of eight officials who said the suite was being held in reserve but they didn't know who would occupy it. Mr. Roosevelt stayed there in 1932 when he came to Chicago to accept the presidential nomination.

FARLEY TO QUIT IF F. D. WINS?

the candidacy of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas as the "first choice" and Sen. Claude Pepper of Florida as "second choice," but neither has much following among the delegates.

The Democratic platform has been written—written in Washington and brought out here by Sen. Robert F. Wagner of New York. Roosevelt's hand-picked chairman of the resolutions committee. Wagner denies having any platform with him but his intimates say he has the written text that was drafted by Roosevelt's advisers and that his duty is to have it approved first by the resolutions committee and then by the convention.

OUT-OF-EUROPE PLEDGE

No one expects any real fight over the platform, although there is a revolt planned against the foreign policy plank, which pledges the Democrats to keep American boys out of European wars.

The Farley position, however, is news. The postmaster-general has wavered for months between his personal opposition to a third term and his unwillingness to come out against the Democratic ticket this year, either in first or second place. But now, Farley is convinced that he has no chance of getting on the ticket and is resigned to it. Hence, he has made up his mind about his own plans for the future.

Here is how one of his most intimate friends described Farley's position:

"Mr. Farley is personally opposed to a third term. He believes it is un-American and dangerous to our democratic form of government. He feels Mr. Roosevelt should have declared against a third term in unmistakable terms many months ago.

FARLEY LOOKS TO 1944

"But now, Mr. Farley believes it is too late. Mr. Roosevelt has created such a position, because the President has remained silent so long that he has completely destroyed the chances of any other Democrat to win.

"Mr. Farley simply cannot imagine a successful Democratic campaign against Roosevelt unless the President, himself, takes the stump in behalf of the ticket this year. Mr. Roosevelt keeps out of this fight, Mr. Farley believes, and the Democrats will be overwhelmingly defeated.

"Mr. Farley will have an even larger voice in 1944 and one thing he will do will be to have the Cohens and Corcorans, the Frankfurters and the Rosenmans out of the inner councils of the Democratic party."

Willkie Eats Chuck At Cowhand Dinner

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 12 (AP)—Wendell L. Willkie, adopting a cowboy idiom to predict his election in November, told a "chuck-wagon dinner" crowd that after next January "the chuck is going to be better and the range greener."

The Republican nominee was the guest of the Colorado Springs "Community Cowhands" at an open-air, informal dinner on the eve of his departure for Denver and today's meeting with the Colorado Republican state committee.

"I want you to come home to rest on the range on the banks of the Potomac," the nominee told a cheering gathering of local citizens, several hundred of whom wore bright cowboy outfits.

Willkie, accompanied by Mrs. Willkie, planned to leave here by car early today for the Denver meeting. Word from his Denver supporters was that a large crowd would greet him.

Gov. Ralph Carr of Colorado arranged to meet the nominee at the state capitol and then go with Mr. and Mrs. Willkie to a luncheon

STIR OVER CURLEY'S PROXY

Announcement that Atty. Joseph Scolponeti, an outspoken opponent of a third term for President Roosevelt, will serve as Democratic national convention proxy for former Gov. James M. Curley set political tongues wagging here today.

The announcement came on the eve of the departure of the Massachusetts delegation for Chicago on a special train leaving Boston tomorrow at 2:45 p. m.

The delegation will be headed by its chairman, Cong. John W. McCormack of South Boston, and State Democratic Committee Chairman William H. Burge of Hatfield.

53 OFFICE-HOLDERS

McCormack, Burke, U. S. Sen. David I. Walsh, Atty. Gen. Paul A. Dever, Mayor Tobin, former Lieut. Gov. Francis Kelly, Dist. Atty. William J. Foley and other delegation leaders plan to make their headquarters at the Stevens Hotel in Chicago.

The majority of the delegation members, however, will probably stay at the Palmer House.

Elected to the delegation were 12 delegates-at-large, 12 alternates, 60 district delegates and 60 alternates.

Of this total of 144 delegates and alternates, three hold federal office as congressman or senator, 20 hold state office, seven hold county office and 23 town or city office.

BURKE PRAISES FARLEY

Seeking to clarify the somewhat anomalous position of the Bay State delegation as formally pledged to support Postmaster-General Farley's presidential candidacy yet known to be generally favorable to a Roosevelt third term, State Chairman Burke said today:

"In his whole political and personal life, Jim Farley never let down a friend, the Democratic party or his country. Loyalty is a part of the man.

"Should circumstances make necessary a change in his position, Jim Farley will need no prompting. Such a change might be brought about by the President's willingness to accept renomination.

"Meantime, I consider myself bound to Farley by a pledge as sacred as any other solemn obligation."

Dempsey Given Convention Post At Chicago

CHICAGO, July 12 (INS)—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, who recently said he was in training for a comeback of a sort, has been named an assistant sergeant-at-arms for the national Democratic convention next week.

The selection was made by Speaker William Bankhead, who will be permanent chairman of the sessions.

Mrs. Connolly In Clerk Race

Nomination papers, with 700 signatures, were filed today with the municipal election commission in behalf of Mrs. Mary J. Connolly, Democratic candidate for clerk of Suffolk Civil Court, and wife of the former clerk, John Patrick Connolly.

The papers were filed by Mrs. Francis B. Winn of Chambers st., West End.

Connolly, sentenced to State Prison for accepting bribes from county employes, is awaiting the result of his appeal to the Supreme Court.

Nominate Willkie Boom Stirs Up Democrat Chiefs

CHICAGO, July 12 (INS)—Interest in a reported "plot" to place the name of Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee, in nomination at next week's Democratic national convention was heightened today with announcement Guy Warren, wealthy Corpus Christi, Tex., oil operator, is scheduled to arrive in Chicago.

Before leaving Texas, Warren said he would establish Chicago headquarters for "nominate Willkie Democrats," and declared:

"A member of the Garner-pledged Texas delegation will nominate Willkie at the Democratic convention."

MILITIA CALL NOW IS URGED

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—Gen. George C. Marshall said today he favored mobiling the Nantional Guard "immediately" for training.

The Army chief of staff made the statement to the Senate military committee before which en endorsed, subject to "minor" amendments, the Burke-Wadsworth bill for compulsory training on a selective basis of all male citizens 21 to 45.

In this connection he said he believed that at the start of any training program the National Guard, with its 230,000 men available on first mobilization, should be called up first.

Asked subsequently whether he desired to "mobilize the National Guard immediately," he replied affirmatively.

His questioner, Sen. Hill (D.) of Alabama, suggested it would be a matter of "justice to men in the guard" to call them up for training.

"I think it would be most unfair for them to be confronted with the possibility of being thrown hurriedly into service without an opportunity to prepare themselves," Marshall commented.

Explaining the Guard would muster 230,000 men on first mobilization, Marshall said the pending legislation would bring its strength to a total "just short of 400,000."

In any case, he said, Guard mobilization should be carried out at least four weeks before the proposed conscription program went into effect.

Carol May Cede Border Strip

BUCHAREST, July 12 (AP)—The controlled Rumanian press assured the nation today the axis powers would not demand sacrifice of Rumania's "ethnic frontier" to satisfy Hungary's territorial claims.

King Carol II's new totalitarian regime, having lost Bessarabia and northern Bucovina to Soviet Russia, acted to rebuild prestige upon the Munich conference of Italy, Germany and Hungary which many Rumanians had feared would dictate the cession of a large part of Transylvania to Hungary.

An editorial authorized by the propaganda ministry reiterated that an exchange of populations would be the best way to solve the dispute over Transylvania, but said the more than 2,000,000 Rumanians in the rich farming province need not dread a return of the "Magyar domination" overthrown in 1918.

Unofficial circles continued to discuss the possibility a border strip eventually might be given back to Hungary, conceding that this area is populated chiefly by Magyars.

Crew of Torpedoed Ship Rows 400 Miles

LONDON, July 12 (AP)—Twenty seamen of the British motorship tanker Athellaird, torpedoed July 2, rowed nearly 400 miles in a 20-foot lifeboat, making only occasional use of sail.

Subsisting on six biscuits, corned beef, condensed milk and rain water, they were only eight miles from the Irish coast when sighted by a vessel, and arrived at an Irish port today. Another lifeboat bearing the captain and 21 other survivors was picked up 200 miles from the coast by another ship.

Man, 77, Lost 20 Hrs., Finds His Way Home

WORCESTER, July 12 (AP)—Soaked to the skin by heavy rains and exhausted by more than 20 hours of tramping in the woods, Jesse F. Thompson, 77, a retired letter carrier, returned at 6:30 a. m. today to his home which he had left at 9 o'clock yesterday morning to pick blueberries.

Thompson said he became lost in the woods yesterday afternoon but eventually found his way out.

Selassie Still King to British

LONDON, July 12 (AP)—Great Britain has decided to recognize the government of Emperor Haile Selassie "as the lawful government of Ethiopia," R. A. Butler, undersecretary for foreign affairs, informed the House of Commons today.

This would be a direct reversal of Britain's action on Nov. 16, 1938, in formally recognizing Italian sovereignty over conquered Ethiopia.

The deposed Emperor has lived in England as a private citizen ever since.

Air War Nears Peak; British Blast Germans

west coast in the early morning light, but were quickly intercepted by a British fighter. Bursts of gunfire from the fighter were followed immediately by the dropping of six bombs within less than a half-minute.

Bombers when attacked frequently try to lighten their planes by emptying their bomb racks, target or no target.

Three houses of a southwestern coastal town were demolished and others were damaged. One bomb struck a children's playground.

HEAVY CIVILIAN TOLL

The air ministry said that night raiders crossed the eastern and southwestern coasts, dropping bombs "in a few districts near the coast" to launch a new day of assault on sea and land objectives.

Casualties in the night attacks were "slight," according to the air ministry, and none was fatal.

The daily raids have been taking a sharply increased toll in civilian casualties, but actual figures on the dead have been cloaked by such official phrases as "several dead" or "a few fatalities." No new deaths had been reported by early afternoon, however.

Nazi raids were broadened today to include Scotland as well as southern England. A German bomber roared out of the clouds over a northeastern Scottish city shortly after noon and three Spitfire fighters met it with a swift-rising challenge.

HOW PLANE CRASHED

The invader dropped two bombs as the fighters roared up. The bomber had run a gantlet of anti-aircraft fire but apparently was caught by full bursts of the fighters' guns.

Like a wounded bird, the plane circled the city, losing height. Smoke poured from the tail. The bomber just cleared rooftops on the outskirts. It struck a tree and bounced across a road into a building where both it and the building burst into flames. The crew perished.

Heavy anti-aircraft fire was heard in a southeastern English town at 1 p. m.

The escape of King George from death or injury was disclosed late last night.

A place he had visited in an inspection tour in southern England was bombed heavily just a few minutes after he left.

"For reasons of security" the government did not give further details.

More and more bombers are being used in the attacks, which are spreading to cover wider and wider areas of England, Scotland and Wales. Whereas earlier attacks were carried out by lone planes or small groups of two or three, the raiders now are coming in groups of as large as 12 and 20.

As violent as the attacks have become, British officials expect they will be made "infinitely stronger" within the "very near future."

French to Beg U. S. for Food

VICHY, July 12 (INS)—French authorities at Martinique, French West Indian colony, may request United States merchant vessels to supply Martinique with foodstuffs, it was reported in Vichy today.

The report claimed Martinique is "virtually blockaded by a British naval squadron."

London recently denied the existence of such a blockade.—Editor's Note.

A Double Delight... ALL MALT AND LIGHT

A TRUE, all malt ale—brewed in the age old manner to suit the modern taste. That's Croft Cream Ale... brilliant, sparkling, with a light, tempting flavor matching that of fine imported beers.

The all malt ale costs more to brew—yet you pay no more. It's an extra bonus of quality and flavor that's set New England talking!

One taste will tell you why. Just ask for the all malt ale—CROFT CREAM ALE—next time you buy!

HUGE TANK ARMY NEW F.D.R. PLAN

WASHINGTON, July 12 (AP)—A formidable army striking force of some 6000 tanks—several hundred of them huge land battleships—was disclosed today as one major objective in President Roosevelt's new $4,848,171,957 preparedness program.

Persons familiar with the plans behind the dollar marks said that the intention was to double the total of 3100 tanks which now are either in service, on order, or covered by appropriation.

Only Germany, they said, possesses a tank force of such potential striking power, according to available information. The projected American equipment, they explained, would include squadrons rivaling the 70-ton tanks which spearheaded victorious Nazi thrusts in Europe.

Signs multiplied, meanwhile, that the War Department was thinking in terms of an army of 1,200,000 troops—the bulk of it to be raised within the next few months by compulsory military training.

The recruiting drive now in progress aims at building up the regular army to 280,000 men by Aug. 30. A 1,200,000 force would include National Guard units now mustering more than 200,000.

General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, urging compulsory service, declared yesterday:

"We must have an increase in our armed forces and we can not expect to get it on a voluntary basis."

United Shoe to Make U. S. Guns

Award of a $1,316,226 contract to the United Shoe Machinery Co., of Boston, for guns, by the War Department, was disclosed by Asst. Sec. Louis Johnson in Washington today.

Other contracts for arms, ammunition and supplies granted Massachusetts and New England concerns totalled an additional $2,640,028.

The contracts were included among War Department outlays of $46,197,142, awarded since June 10, from funds voted by Congress last month for the fiscal 12 months starting July 1.

Second largest contract allotted a Massachusetts concern was $721,594 to Gilbert & Barker Manufacturing Co., Springfield for fire control instruments.

Others included Remington Arms Co., Bridgeport, Ct., cartridges, $699,775; Holtzer Cabot Electric Co., Boston, telephones and parts, $537,750; Bridgeport Thermostat Co., ammunition, $118,167; Nashua Manufacturing Co., Boston, blankets, $145,468; Esmond Mills, Esmond, R. I., blankets, $119,800; United Aircraft Corp., Hamilton Standard Propellers Division, East Hartford, Ct., propeller assemblies and controls, $174,112; maintenance parts, $13,913; Chase Brass and Copper Co., Waterbury, Ct., brass, $118,417.

LIQUOR TAX WARNING

Liquor establishments must cease posting notices misrepresenting extent of new federal taxes on liquor, the state alcoholic beverage commission warned today, terming the statements "grossly exaggerated."

U.S. CONTINUES WAR ORPHAN AID AS EVACUATION HALTS

In spite of temporary difficulties in the evacuation of children from the bomb-threatened British Isles, Washington officials continued making final arrangements today for placing girl and boy refugees from war-torn Europe in American homes.

Authorities pointed out that success of initial efforts to care for youthful fugitives from death and horror overseas must necessarily depend on the number of U. S. citizens coming forward with pledges to adopt the war orphans or take them into their households until world peace shall finally dawn.

New England has responded to the plea of the Boston Evening American with a virtual torrent of offers of homes. It has outdone any other single section of the country in open hearted, unselfish generosity.

But more remains to be done. Perhaps readers have been hesitating to write the Editor. If so let them contemplate the frightful situation faced by the saddened children of Europe.

WRITE AT ONCE

Then they will sit down and write immediately letters similar to those received today and only a few of which are printed below.

BOSTON—"In reply to articles about children of war I should like to say that I have a childless home and would like to take an English, French or Dutch child. My wife and I would prefer one between the ages of three and six."

PEABODY—"My husband and I would be very happy to have one or two English war orphans for the duration of the war. We are both fond of children and are most anxious to help in this pathetic situation. Our preference is for girls and very young ones."

BOSTON—"I would like to help the poor war orphans. I will do my part in bringing her up nicely. I am a widow and have a grown daughter. I am very of children and could help an orphan since I own my own home and have my own income."

HOME FOR LITTLE GIRL

SOUTH NATICK—"My wife and I would take a little girl four or five years old from either England or Holland. Kindly let us know if any arrangements can be made. We would take her for the duration of the war, or longer if necessary."

MALDEN—"We are a young couple and would like a little girl no older than three. We will care for her and love her as if she were our own and give her the best education we can. Please let us know if we are to be blessed with this child."

BOSTON—"I have been following the stories about the orphans the United States may receive. I have no children of my own and how I would love to have one. She could have all that could be asked for by a little girl three or four years old."

WANTS POLISH CHILD

CLINTON—"My husband and I would like to have one of the war orphans for our own. We would prefer a Polish child since I am of Polish extraction. Although, if a Polish child is not available we will be glad to have one of any nationality."

RANDOLPH—"We have a comfortable home in the country where the air is grand and there is plenty of room for children to play. We could take two, but would be happy with one. We want little ones, not over a year old if possible. And if given a preference will take a son."

SOMERVILLE—"I would like to take a small boy, aged nine or ten, into my home for the duration of the war. I would prefer a little English boy as I am an Englishwoman. My husband and son saw active service in the World War. I have reared seven grand, healthy children and since my youngest daughter has grown to womanhood I am lonesome for a small youngster. I am still a young woman but not young enough to offer my services across. Hence my desire to help in some way. May God bless your efforts."

REVERE—"Having read your article on war orphans, my husband and I want to inform you we are interested in adopting one, or even two, children. We have been married for nine years and have not been blessed with children. We own our own home and have a beautiful place for children to play. We are most anxious to make some poor unfortunate children happy. We would prefer a brother and sister between two and four years old. I would take into my heart children that are English or French."

St. Peter's Grave Hunted On Papal Order

VATICAN CITY, July 12 (AP)—A search for the original grave of St. Peter in the crypts under the great church named for him began today at the command of Pope Pius XII, Vatican sources said.

Workmen started digging, with Enrico Galleazzi, chief architect of the Vatican, and Bartolomeo Nogara, director of the Papal Museums, supervising the work.

St. Peter's body is supposed to lie in a vault under the main altar, but the exact spot of the original tomb has not been known.

The apostle was put to death by the Romans on Vatican Hill in the year 67 A. D., and is believed to have been buried first in the foothills at the site of the present church.

St. Peter's body was moved early in the Christian era to a vault on the Appian way where it lay for a time with that of St. Paul.

The body later was restored to its former resting place and Constantine the Great had a basilica erected over the grave at the foot of Vatican Hill. This was replaced by the present Church of St. Peter in the sixteenth century.

A Vatican informant said the Pope decided to order a search for the original tomb after traces of Constantine's church were found recently in work under St. Peter's.

Petain in Full Rule of France

By the Associated Press

VICHY, France, July 12—Under the shadow of the swastika, aged Marshal Henri Philippe Petain took into his hands today the reins of an authoritarian France.

Publication in the official journal of a "constitutional act" over his own signature gave the 84-year-old "hero of Verdun" combined powers of President and premier and marked the death of the defeated third French republic.

President Albert Lebrun was a "forgotten man."

Today Petain theoretically held more power than any Frenchman since Napoleon III, but his right to govern as he pleases—at least until a new national assembly is formed—actually is limited by France's position as a conquered nation.

Another "constitutional act" he signed gives him legislative power "during this period of serious international tension and internal crises."

The remnants of the old Parliament will remain through this transition period, but may not meet except at Petain's summons.

Girls to Canada! It's Leap Year

BAUDETTE, Minn., July 12 (AP)—Leap year is just the thing for the girls along the border here.

New passport regulations put a crimp in the regular calls the young Canadians may make on their American girls, but that doesn't stop the girls from going to Canada—it's 1940 isn't it?

Come On, Girls; Men Have Doodling Edge

The men took the major bows today as 10 more cash awards were announced in the Boston Evening American's Doodles Contest.

Since the Doodles drawing game started several weeks ago, the women have grabbed most of the prizes.

But today the judges picked the contributions of six men as against four women.

Doodles, of course, is not only a game for men and women. Children, too, find it fascinating. The idea is to fill in the lines of the Doodles cartoons printed daily.

Make it funny and original. Each day five winners receive $1 each. Send your Doodles to the Doodles Editor, 5 Winthrop sq., Boston. Here are the latest winners:

Peter Christopher, Central St., Beverly; Raymond T. Wise, Oak St., Franklin, N. H.; Ellen Bragdon, South Prospect, Bradford; Leo Anoushian Chester Ave., Somerville; Mrs. Harry Mann, Kossuth St., Pawtucket, R. I.

Priscilla Cobb, Osgood St., Salem; Doris MacSullivan, La Grange St., W. Roxbury; Nelson Perkins, Wadsworth St., Allston; Frank Stangle, Sycamore St., Roslindale; Geo. Ingalls, Sheridan St., Lynn.

Sun to Regulate Bus Timetable

There is something new under the sun—today's announced timetable of the Boston El's fair weather buses.

Under a temporary 60-day license, the buses will operate from various points in Dorchester and Roxbury to Columbia Beach, Dorchester.

But—the buses will be guided by the weather. If the sun is out and the mercury is high enough to swim, patrons can count on the buses running. If the weather is bad, the buses won't operate.

The buses in good weather will run daily and Sunday from 12 30 to 7:30 p. m. from Washington st., and Gallivan blvd., via Washington and Columbia rd., to the Columbia circle station; from Morton st., and Blue Hill ave., and Columbia rd.; from Franklin Park and Columbia rd., via Columbia rd.; from West Cottage and Blue Hill ave., via Dudley st., and Columbia rd.

Maine Boy Loses Foot In Mowing Machine

NORTH YARMOUTH, Me., July 12—Victim of a cruel twist of fate, Maurice McDonald, 17, of Hanover st., Portland, today was hospitalized with his right foot amputated.

The youth was passing a stick of gum to a companion operating a power driven hay mower on a farm here when his foot was caught in the blades.

New Bedford Gets Taste of Air War

NEW BEDFORD, July 12—The meaning of national defense was brought home vividly to thousands here today after anti-aircraft machine gunnerrs from the 10th Coast Artillery defended this city against an "enemy" bomber.

It was simulated warfare witnessed by the public at Fort Rodman. The bomber was an army plane from Mitchell Field, L. I., which cruised along the water at 148 miles an hour while machine gunners fired upon it.

Former Lawson Residence Is Historic Spot

Dreamwold Hall, historic and magnificent home of the late Thomas Lawson, is a fine expression of a man's love and devotion for his wife. Among the most beautiful of the rooms is the former dining hall with its colorful murals of appropriate harvest scenes.

The burnished oak walls depict the beauties of the purple vines and golden fields, as they display clusters of grapes, fruit and corn. The massive fireplace, inlaid with tiles, add to the harvest atmosphere through the bright yellow pumpkins and deep green vines.

The high mantle of cherry oak, beautifully carved and surmounted by a pair of deer heads, complete the rustic air of the room.

The final touch is added by the cut glass chandelier in the form of a pumpkin which is hung from a bronze fixture in the shape of pumpkin leaves. The latter fixture is said to be worth a few thousand dollars and is the only one of its kind in the world

Novel Vocalists For Ocean Sail

BOSTON, July 12—Captain Furr of the luxurious millionaire yacht Yankee Clipper, sailing to Provincetown daily from Edison Wharf, Atlantic ave., near South Station, announces that beginning Sunday, two popular musical artists, Kay Doyle and Don Polvere, will provide a novel musical program.

Kay Doyle is the phenomenal voice wrapped in an alluring personality that rocketed out of Dorchester only a few weeks ago into radio fame as the New England songstress. It might be more accurate to have called her a "swingstress" for she has an insinuating way of putting over a song that is just the thing for the deck of a millionaire yacht heading across Massachusetts Bay for Provincetown.

Her partner and accompanist on the accordion is Don Polvere, from Savannah, Georgia, where he played with Ed Courtney's Orchestra. Don Polvere's softly southern way with an accordion together with Kay Doyle's swing singing should make the already popular Yankee Clipper seal to Provincetown a waiting list proposition.

Steaks Are Specialty

Hobomock in Pembroke is one of New England's finest eating spots. It is but Mr. and Mrs. Fred Polari serve their delightful dinners—where even the most ravenous of appetites may be appeased, especially with the famous Hobomock charcoal steaks.

Two of Galvin's Sans Souci dancers who appear nightly in a gala South Sea Island Revue at the Beachcomber.

New Floor Show At Hotel Essex

The Hotel Essex Grill Room continues its record as one of Boston's ideal summer night spots with three big floor shows and excellent dance music presented in an atmosphere calculated to bring coolness and comfort during the sultry summer nights.

Billy Kelly, genial master of ceremonies, offers this week a sensational revue headlined by Sir James Love, Jerry Fife, Lilli Catino, Grace Whitty, Queenice Shannon, Lynne Crawford, Adele Cory and many others.

In the air-conditioned Lounge Bar Preston Sandiford, famous pianist and arranger for nationally known bands, presents interludes of his own arrangements which have won for him well-merited applause. Bill Dodge, vocalist with the Hotel Essex orchestra, is a smash-hit and Lou Gordon's violin solos are a real treat.

Kay Doyle Singing Star at Hampton

Lovely Kay Doyle, the young lady with the "voice that thrills" is attracting the plaudits of Hampton Beach dance-lovers every night at the Hampton Beach, N. H., Casino.

Miss Doyle is the singing star with Bob Pooley's orchestra, engaged for the season at this popular resort.

Crowds Throng to Rand's Dude Ranch In Hingham

Don Rand's Dude Ranch in Hingham has caught the popular fancy and is rapidly becoming one of the real show spots of the South Shore.

Particularly attractive, witness the crowds who have turned out, are the fiesta nights, regular Saturday night features.

There are many attractions at the Dude Ranch, among them the fine selection of western riding horses; mile long trails through the rolling country; archery range; fancy riding exhibitions.

No small part of the ranch is the restaurant where many kinds of barbecues are available. The entertainment is headed by Ed Parsley's Saddle Pals, ably assisted by Georgia Mae, the Moonlight Rangers and Slim Lombardo, yodeling cowboy.

As an added feature, Ed Parsley makes it possible for guests to record their singing voices during the informal songfests around the campfire.

Aerial Troupe at Paragon Thrilling

Paragon Park is now enjoying the height of the season and thousands are daily visiting this famous resort.

Paul Zarra

The Queens of the Sky, 5 girls and a man, perform twice daily at Paragon Park. Their 110-foot aerial act, which concludes with two "Slides for Life" provide unusual thrills and excitement to delight the hearts of all.

Paul Zarra and his orchestra play nightly at the Palm Garden Grille

Free Buses for Steel Pier

A free bus service has been inaugurated for passengers of the SS Steel Pier, Provincetown boat.

Each morning large buses will pick up Steel Pier passengers who arrive at So. Station and transport them free of charge right to Foster's wharf, from which the Steel Pier leaves daily for the 100-mile round trip to the little town at the tip of Cape Cod.

The last trip the buses make on week days, will be two minutes of ten, arriving at Foster's Wharf at two minutes past ten.

Sundays, the last bus will leave So. Station at 10:30.

Fishing Trip Is Popular

Enthusiastic reports from those who have taken a deep sea fishing trip on the Steamer Myrtle, have caused a noticeable increase in the number who are making this trip this season.

The Steamer Myrtle leaves T Wharf daily and Sunday at 10 a. m. for an all-day trip to the fishing grounds. Free lines and bait are provided. A feature of the trips is the keen competition for the season's prizes.

Fox & Hounds Club Open All Summer

Eddie Davis, president of the Beacon Street Fox & Hounds Club, announces that this popular supper room will remain open all summer. A special dinner is served nightly which is meeting with great favor among the guests. There is dancing until the early hours to the strains of Jason Tobais and his orchestra and a no cover charge policy prevails at all times.

5 BURNED TO DEATH IN CINCINNATI FIRE

CINCINNATI, July 12 (AP)—Five persons died and at least two others were burned severely as fire early today trapped 10 residents and employes on the third floor of the Holy Family Home, a branch of St. Francis Hospital.

Three fatally burned were found huddled in corners. One victim was found in the linen closet which she apparently entered in the belief she had reached an outside door.

"One went back to get her clothes and that was the last we saw of her," a hospital attache said.

Police Maj. Eimer O'Neil saw the blaze as he was passing in an automobile and said he heard persons shouting "save the

Prehistoric Film for Keith Fans

Lon Chaney, Jr., Wins Laurels

By PEGGY DOYLE

Life begins nearer to 1940 for the outsize monsters featured in Hal Roach's prehistoric spectacle than to the astronomical date that gives the current Keith-Memorial screen attraction its title—"One Million B. C."

Which is to advise the extroverts in the congregation that here is no paleontologist's delight requiring a thorough grounding in such extinct creatures as dinosaurs and stone age citizens.

Most exciting sequence in the entire picture is the fight between the two lizards, photographed to appear of extravagant proportions. It is the best thing in the pictures, which features Carole Landis, Victor Mature, Lon Chaney, Jr., Mamo Clark and Conrad Nagel.

Nagel is cast as a scholarly gentleman who knows his hieroglyphics and is deciphering some as the picture opens. Then, there is a throwback through the centuries to the age of the Rock and Shell peoples, two enemy tribes dwelling in a world overrun with dinosaurs, woolly mammoths, huge reptiles, musk oxen and other gigantic beast now extinct.

If these latter appear no more terrifying than their counterparts in one of the commercial exhibits at the World's Fair, there are any number of reasons for it principally Comedy-King Roach's direction and a story that has no hair on its chest.

Of the human actors, the performance of Lon Chaney, Jr., is the only one rating orchids. He shows himself his father's own son in his portrayal of the weirdly made-up tribal chieftain.

Miss Landis, who declined to be the "ping" girl or something oomphish like that because she would be recognized for her talent rather than her photogenic gems, doesn't rise above the "ping" classification in this one.

Partnered with United Artists' prehistoric print is "Saps at Sea," co-starring those comic playboys, Stan Laurel and Oliver Hardy, in some film nonsense that is more attuned to Hal Roach's directorial abilities.

A Walt Disney classic, "Tug Boat Mickey," with Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck and Goofy, is an added and most welcome feature.

Uptown's Films

Edward G. Robinson in "Brother Orchid," one of the best of the gangster comedies, and "Those Were the Days," co-starring William Holden and Bonita Granville, are the Uptown's screen attractions.

MARY McLAREN has a featured role in "Reefer Madness," now in its fifth week at the Globe.

Marihuana Film Held 5th Week

"Reefer Madness" is now in its fifth week at the Globe Theater.

It treats of the evils of marihuana smoking, and shows how reefer-peddlers initiate youths into the use of this most vicious and easily obtainable of drugs.

According to its producers, "Reefer Madness" presents actual instances of degradation resulting from marihuana's use since they are from the official files of the Federal Bureau of Narcotics. Naturally, the bureau has not revealed the names.

Appearing in the cast are Dorothy Short, Lillian Miles, Dave O'Brien, Harry Harvey, Jr., Kenneth Craig and Mary McLaren.

Kelland, Novelist, On So. Station Screen

Clarence Buddington Kelland, novelist and short story writer, is the guest of honor on the current "Information Please" at South Station Theater. Of course, the indispensable John Kieran, F. P. Adams, Oscar Levant and Clifton Fadiman are also present.

"Jack Pot," a crime-does-not-pay short exposing the slot-machine racket; "The U. S. Army Cavalry," daring exhibition of horsemanship at Fort Riley, two color cartoons, a "Three Stooges" comedy and latest newsreels are featured.

TRY FOR A FREE ART COURSE

Copy this girl and send us your drawing—perhaps you'll win a COMPLETE FEDERAL COURSE FREE! This contest is for amateurs, so if you like to draw do not hesitate to enter. Prize for Five Best Drawings — FIVE COMPLETE ART COURSES FREE, including drawing outfits. (Value of each course, $195.00.)

FREE! Each contestant whose drawing shows sufficient merit will receive a grading and advice as to whether he or she has, in our estimation artistic talent worth developing.

Nowadays design and color play an important part in the sale of almost everything. Therefore the artist, who designs merchandise or illustrates advertising has become a real factor in modern industry. Machines can never displace him. Many Federal students, both men and girls who are now commercial designers or illustrators capable of earning up to $5000 yearly have been trained by the Federal Course. Here's a splendid opportunity to test your talent. Read the rules and send your drawing to the address below.

RULES

This contest open only to amateurs, 16 years old or more. Professional commercial artists and Federal students are not eligible.

1. Make drawing of girl 5½ inches high, on paper 7 inches high. Draw only the girl, not the lettering.
2. Use only pencil or pen.
3. No drawings will be returned.
4. Print your name, address (town, county, state), age and occupation on back of drawing.
5. All drawings must be received by July 31st, 1940. Prizes will be awarded for drawings best in proportion and neatness by Federal Schools Faculty.

JOAN CRAWFORD EXCELLENT IN LOEW'S 'SUSAN AND GOD'

Fredric March Shares Honors

Rachel Crothers' witty and wise transcontinental stage hit, "Susan and God," which provided a sensational tour de force for Gertrude Lawrence, loses none of its adult entertainment values in its translation to the screen. You even catch the unforgettable Lawrence inflections occasionally in the clipped English of Joan Crawford's cinematic Susan.

As streamlined as Zorina and as sparkling as Pol Roger '28, this elaborate and faultlessly cast Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production yesterday lured an S. R. O. attendance to the Orpheum. The State reported a similarly successful opening-day business.

Miss Crawford's Susan, the role Miss Lawrence created, proves that the celebrated glamour girl can turn in a first-rate acting job without sacrificing her glamour standing. She is excellent as the orchidaceous scatterbrain, who discovers a new religion abroad and returns home to airily spread it and disaster among her fashionable circle the while she overlooke the need for loving kindness at home.

In the stage version, Gertrude Lawrence's fabulous flibbertigibbet Susan was the whole show. Anita Loos' film adaptation has elaborated the husband role. Barrie, played with brilliant restraint by Fredric March, to give it co-starring ranking.

March's Barrie, the sensitive, bewildered, unhappy spouse of the frothy Susan, completely outstrips the footlights Barrie. It is a well-rounded, vital characterization.

Surprisingly good is Rita Quigley's Blossom. It is the youngster's screen debut and should be only the beginning of a starry screen career.

Rose Hobart, too long absent from stage and screen, gives a finely shaded performance; and Marjorie Main, one of our particular pets, does a love of a slattern as Susan's thoroughly aware housekeeper.

Nigel Bruce, Rita Hayworth, John Carroll, Ruth Hussey, Constance Collier, Norma Mitchell and the rest of a glittering cast keep the story alive through most of the two hours' unreeling. Some judicious cutting would have accelerated the action of this George Cukor-directed production.

Teamed with "Susan and God" is "Turnabout," United Artists' film version of the incredibly amusing Thorne Smith story.

ROSEMARY LANE of the photogenic Lanes will soon be seen on Keith-Memorial screen in Warners' "The Boys From Syracuse," inspired by the stage hit of the same name which premiered here.

Olympia Program

"Waterloo Bridge," the excellent Vivien Leigh-Robert Taylor co-starring war drama, and "Brother Orchid," a gangster-guying comedy starring Edward G. Robinson with Ann Sothern and Humphrey Bogart make up a must-see program at the Washington St., Olympia, starting tomorrow.

Comedies Score at Boston

By DON WARD

Two of the handsomest stars on the screen are Jon Hall and Nancy Kelly, now breezing through the "Sailor's Lady" comedy at the RKO Boston.

Hall is the stalwart, genial chap from the South Seas who flashed out for the first time in Goldwyn's spectacular "Hurricane" picture a few years ago. Miss Kelly is the Bay State beauty who has done so well on Broadway and among the Hollywood studios.

Joan Davis is the best known commedienne in this frolic involving the gob and his girl and a cute kid called Skipper. The kid's right name is Bruce Hampton. For a youngster still in his first year he's a wonder. He takes to comedy as a duckling takes to the Charles river basin. The sailor being mistaken for the little fellow's dad (which is no new entry in U. S. Navy annals), it's a cinch to plant Skipper aboard the fighting ship during the excitement preceding the war game cruise. Skipper fairly scuttles everything.

The film is good for a lot of laughs and that's a recommendation at this time of the year. Allan Dwan directed for 20th Century Fox. Mary Nash, Larry Crabbe, Wally Vernon, Dana Andrews, Katherine Aldridge and Harry Shannon are up near the top of the cast.

There are also some hearty laughs in "Hot Steel," the other K-B attraction, with Andy Devine in top form as the husky, good-natured furnace man in the steel mill and with Joe Besser, comedian known to vaudeville fans, also lightening up the drama mystery and murder. Richard Arlen and Peggy Moran are there chiefly for romantic ends.

IT'S ROYAL BLUE

And Anne's a Comely Eyeful

BOSTON BUSINESS MEN ON PARADE

Volunteers for Military Training at Fort Devens Learn How to Fight

Camping

Some 300 business and professional men are tenting on the old camp ground at Camp Devens tonight . . . and (above) you see the tents in which they live . . . at their own expense while getting a course in military training. And (left, above) State Representative Gilbert Sullivan gets some pointers on Kitchen Police work from Durwood Wilkinson, regular Army cook. However, it's a merry life . . .

Signed by most of the 300 business and professional men now in training at Fort Devens, a petition asking Congress to adopt compulsory military training was on its way to Washington today. The signers are volunteer rookies.

They are members of the business men's unit of the Citizens' Military Training Camp. They include college professors, editors, lawyers, brokers, sales experts, architects, insurance men and lots more. They are just buck privates in a volunteer army preparing themselves for any national emergency, and seriously.

They are men who feel that their example may help in the preparation of their country for such an emergency. They are men who feel that it is a duty incumbent upon every individual living under the Stars and Stripes to do his bit. They are not fooling.

The very first impression a visitor to their camp gets is one of deadly seriousness. Among these 300 odd are veterans of the World War. Among them are men who because of their ages would never be drafted. But one and all they have in common that main idea. It is a duty and they are answering the call.

At their own expense they are living under army regulations and they are, to use a popular expression, "taking it." From 5:30 a. m. when that many times cursed bugle sounds reveille, to 6 o'clock in the evening, these men most of whom rarely rise before 8 when at home "take it." They are foot sore and weary today, but with a gleam in the eye, and a sneak glance downwards at vanishing waist lines they all tell you

"We'll be in great condition in another week."

Men who never in their lives turned down a blanket, or shined a shoe are today making their own beds, regulation style; keeping their gear in regulation pattern and saying, "Sir" when an officer addresses them.

Men whose rooms have made downtown office windows shake, and office boys jump, hop to it as a regular army sergeant says, "Pvog" and dare not be a second late for falling in when the bugle sounds for inspection.

Lawyers whose honeyed words have won jury verdicts find words no good and alibis worse. And they like it. College professors whose lecture halls have been crowded with those seeking learning are today just the veriest rookies.

These march drill carry their packs and clean their rifles. They hike long and dusty miles with little rest. They are undergoing one month of intensive training to prepare them for that national emergency which may be just around the corner. They are "taking it." They are digging in. They are a determined set and they are doing their bit side by side regardless of creed or social position for the grand old flag.

Mess—R. M. (Duke) Sedgwick and John Teele of Boston business chat a moment at mess . . . while their aching muscles ache.

Interview—Boston American's Mark MacIntyre interviews Harrison G. Reynolds, one of the organizers of the business men's unit . . . and Mark's story runs alongside this.

Attention—Early morning call finds Lawrence T. Coolidge (foreground) lined up with his buddies at attention. From early dawn till night, the men train for war . . . and like it.

ILLUSTRIOUS SON OF AN ILLUSTRIOUS FATHER
U. S. Senator Bennett C. Clark of Missouri

WHEN THE STATE of Missouri overwhelmingly re-elected Bennett C. Clark to the United States Senate in 1938, the Washington political commentator of the Hearst newspapers, George Rothwell Brown, wrote:

"There might be a possibility of a new Missouri compromise in 1940 in the person of Mr. Clark."

This long week of solemn reflection before the Democratic national convention might make a prophet out of Mr. Brown.

If the Democratic party should decide to offer the country a presidential candidate who believes in coupling a total preparedness for national defense with a total abstention from international intrigues which lead to foreign wars, it might very easily and very wisely nominate Bennett Champ Clark.

IF IT DID SO, the Democratic party would refresh our memories of one of the memorable events of American history, when the illustrious father of the present senator, Champ Clark, was the choice of the American people but not of Democratic politicians for the presidency.

That was a crossroad from which the Democratic party turned down the tragic path which took the United States through a bitter war.

If Champ Clark had been elected President in 1912, the United States would have been so thoroughly prepared for defense that it probably would not have been drawn into the World War.

What a difference that would have made to America today!

Now the Democratic party is at that same crossroad.

Will it follow the ROAD TO WAR again, or this time go the way the people and not the politicians want to go?

As all loyal Americans did, Bennett C. Clark did all he could for his country in the World War, and distinguished himself in it.

At its end, like the great majority of his American comrades, he was determined that the United States should not get into another war like it.

The American Legion was born out of the World War, and Bennett C. Clark was one of its founders, and its first national commander.

WHY SHOULD WE NOT turn for our present leadership to those Americans of vast and useful experience, and let them save their sons from the fruitless adventures of foreign wars, and SAVE AMERICA from another unnecessary war and more crushing debts and perhaps from another depression?

The Democratic party should consider the people this time and not the politicians.

Its politicians have always let the people down.

They kept the United States out of war only long enough to get themselves elected in 1916.

They poured more than twenty billion dollars and a priceless segment of American youth down the rat hole of war in 1917 and 1918.

They have recently spent seven billion dollars for national defense in seven years without giving the nation adequate defense.

WHY DOES NOT the Democratic party turn itself back to the people?

Why does it not find its leadership among those in its ranks who want to keep America out of war and who KNOW HOW to do it?

It is to be hoped that the Democratic party has spent this last week before its national convention in reflection upon its patriotic obligations and opportunities, as well as upon its appetite and ambitions for continued power.

It would not deserve power, and should not aspire to it, if it has nothing better to offer the country than further risk of our national solvency, our prosperity and our security and peace.

FIVE WEEKS AGO a young newspaperwoman told me she was never going to get married. Of course, I told her she was making a mistake and that every woman should be married at least once. Now I hear this young lady has just married. I hope she doesn't blame me for this step. I wouldn't say that, only one other time I advised a newspaperwoman that matrimony was the best thing for her. And so what? One day at the Santa Anita Turf Club while I was occupied with my studies of past performances she walked up to me and said: "Listen, you talked me into marrying that heel. Now you get me out of it." And the good Samaritan thought he had trouble.

IN "SUSAN AND GOD" Joan Crawford plays a mother. Imagine it, Joan Crawford playing mother parts. Oh, time, why do you march on the way you do? . . . Sixty-five per cent of American women are revealed by research to be less than five feet four inches tall. And the majority of these are plump, or starting to be not slender. Also said the number of overweight women in this country is around 25 million. Guess I'll start trying to think up a sure fire popular priced reducing system . . . More than 300 men have left the federal bureau of investigation for jobs in private business that paid higher salaries. Considering the training necessary to develop a G-man the government would be wise to pay him enough money to keep him interested in crime fighting.

SOMEBODY enclosed a lot of Southern cooking recipes in a letter and now after reading them I have been made so hungry I can hardly stand it. And it is three hours until dinner time. Some of the recipes attracting my attention were Baltimore oyster stew, smothered chicken, ham and corn fritters and Alabama sweet potato pie. My eye was also taken by one headed "Heavenly Hash"; but when I read what it was made of I didn't like it. There's only one kind of hash worthy a man's attention and that is corned beef hash.

EDGAR BERGEN says the Coeds in Northwestern University, his alma mater, were "class roomy-rather than classy." That's a good description of a Mt. Holyoke College girl too. The class of feminine university students is the Smith College Girl. Six months at Smith and an American girl is glorified.

MY DAY

NEW YORK CITY, July 12—Lakeside, Ohio, where I spoke Wednesday, is very like Chautauqua in New York State. It is run by the Methodist Church people, and offers a religious program as well as many other types of educational and pleasurable entertainment.

The location on Lake Erie is very beautiful and the opportunity for sports and out-of-door recreation must make it a haven for many families.

The auditorium holds about 4000 people, but they have smaller auditoriums which are turned over to the young people for meetings.

This is a favorite meeting place for groups of the Epworth League.

The Northern Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs was holding its meetings there, and the head of the Toledo, Ohio, club came to see me.

PERHAPS I am wrong in feeling that a great many of our women are still living in the world which they hope exists, rather than in the world which really does exist today.

They are still talking of world peace and what we can do to bring about peace in this world, in the hope that it can be accomplished at the present time and in the same way that peace groups have worked for many years.

This is discouraging to me, for I feel that our situation in the world is so completely changed that old methods and old approaches must be changed in order to meet it. However, I hope sincerely that I am wrong and that we may not be facing as serious a situation as seems indicated by recent events.

I WAS impressed Wednesday by the interest that people are taking in giving homes to refugee children. A young woman, who has started a nursery school in Toledo, came in to tell me that she would attempt to raise money to support a group of refugee children in her school, and she and her colleagues would donate their care.

This seemed to me a very generous offer from a very small nursery school which is just getting on its feet. I hope she will be able to find people to sponsor some children, for she seems to have a very good plant.

Some members of the Sandusky Altrusa Club came in to present me with a very beautiful corsage bouquet. On every hand friendly people waited to greet me, which is always a pleasant experience.

We drove to Cleveland after the lecture, some 75 miles, but the road was good and we had an hour in a hotel to rest before we took a plane to New York City.

This is the first time, I think, that I have been on a night plane and failed to see the sun rise, but I was so sleepy that it did not matter to me in the least when and how the sun rose. I slept until the stewardess awakened me to say that we would be in New York City in fifteen minutes.

BRITISH DANCER BROKE IN N. Y.

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, July 12—ENTERPRISE . . . Lillian Hellman was assigned by PM to cover the Republican convention. After Willkie was nominated, Miss Hellman went to his headquarters to meet and interview him . . . She waited her turn and finally was introduced to the Republican candidate. "Er . . . how do you do" was the only line the author of "The Little Foxes" and "Children's Hour" could summon to mind "Er . . . are you going to be here all week?" . . . CHATTER . . . Paulette Goddard, who arrived on the Stratosphere plane Tuesday afternoon, took the next plane back to Hollywood—because of a sudden call . . . Jack Kennedy, son of the American ambassador to Britain, has enrolled at Yale Law school . . . Friends of Leon Blum insist that despite the published reports the ex-Premier still is in France . . . The Fairway Yacht Club is having tough sailing and will become front page material shortly . . . When the Defense council decided that certain raw materials needed from French Indo-China might not be obtainable soon, they cabled—and within 24 hours that material was on Maritime Commission boats. "You broke 250 regulations," was the naval commandant's message, "and God bless you for it."

PAULETTE GODDARD

SAFETY . . . Lem Schofield, newly assigned to immigration duties, has evolved this idea which soon will be announced and made effective: When all aliens in this country appear for fingerprinting, pursuant to the new regulations, their feeling that the government is discriminating against them will be assuaged by a pamphlet delivered to each one. That pamphlet, to be written by one of America's most famous writers, will express the government's anxiety for their care, and explain that this step is being taken only to safeguard for them and all Americans—citizens of our immigrant country—the Democracy which will be their protection.

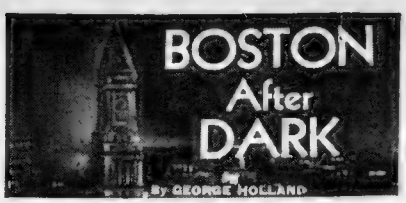
HOPE: Tilly Losch, the dancer and wife of the Earl of Carnarvon, arrived here via Montreal a few days ago . . . Her husband is in the British army and persuaded her to leave. Because of the exchange restrictions she was not permitted to take any money with her. And so now she is in N. Y., without funds, arranging for a Hollywood job. Her husband believes that she has a $1000-a-week job, for Tilly had told him that "because I didn't want him to worry about me. He has enough worries now."



ENOUGH OF UNCLE SAM'S STREAMLINED ARMY will be on display in the American Legion parade, feature of the Boston convention starting September 26, to give the folks an idea . . . More than 26,000 soldiers will march, this column hears . . . Tanks and other accoutrements of a mechanized force, expressing le dernier cri of modern assault, will roll into line—fresh from the assembly lines . . . Many of the 26,000 men will be equipped in the latest military fashion, and with harness and habiliment that was only "on order" when the country's defense program was launched a few weeks ago . . . Graphic proof that the New Deal can deliver, and weeks ahead of the national election, will be evident in what will really be a preview of America's modern army . . . Or so we hear.

AND DID YOU HAPPEN TO READ that former Governor Ely has announced his intention of "taking a walk" in event that President Roosevelt seeks a third term? . . . This was predicted too fully here to warrant more than a passing mention—a word of thanks to the former Governor for his complete and timely word of confirmation . . . Watch now for former Governor Smith, who is busy making converts to the Willkie cause in Massachusetts, to make a similar announcement . . . The Smith "walk" probably will be timed a few days after the Democratic convention comes to a close.

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: Lakewood, Maine, (near Skowhegan), enjoyed for several seasons a father-son footlights legend with the Owen Davises, Sr. and Jr., participating . . . Owen, Sr., writer of "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl" and the Pulitzer Prize play "Icebound." (to mention two of his 300-odd works), was the author, and Owen, Jr., the actor, of the sentimental little arrangement . . . Come the Arthur Byrons, Sr. and Jr., now, and the arrangement is reversed . . .Young Arthur has written a radio series in collaboration with Philo Higley, and Arthur, Sr., is the star . . . The senior Mr. Byron, a splendid actor, will portray an aging retired stage star who returns to a Maine community (which might well be Lakewood) and there airs his philosophies on the state of the world

AN ITEM OF NEWS from New York which leaves this pillar in a condition of disbelief is that Richard Aldrich, the recent bridegroom, has hired the Brattle Hall premises in Cambridge for a week in late August . . . Before and since his marriage to Gertrude Lawrence, Mr. Aldrich has been the main squeeze in the operations at Dennis, Mass., wherein the Cape Playhouse is situate . . . The New York report would have us believe that Mr. Aldrich has a play for Guy Robertson, and that Brattle Hall will be the tryout house . . . If Mr. Aldrich was fascinated by a new vehicle for Mr. Robertson it would be logical that he would favor his own summer theater with the presentation . . . Not that he can't be wrong . . . Anything can happen in the theater.

Hollywood Today

DANIELLE DARRIEUX IN FILM COMEBACK

By Loudla O. Parsons

Danielle Darrieux

HOLLYWOOD, July 12 - Remember Danielle Darrieux, the little French girl who made such a hit in "The Rage of Paris," her sole American picture? She left Hollywood and Universal and never came back. At the time she was reported as not being too complimentary to our town. But you can usually take those comments with a grain of salt. As I understand it the little Darrieux didn't understand some of the questions put to her.

Well, anyhow, Darrieux is making a picture at the moment in England for RKO under the direction of William Sistrom and RKO plans to bring her over in the early fall to appear in a picture to be produced by David Hempstead. But—there's a little catch in the RKO-American deal. Darrieux is still under contract to Universal and there may be fireworks—just as there is in the case of Robert Donat, who cannot come to Hollywood for M-G-M because Edward Small will sue him at the drop of a hat.

LUCILLE BALL

JOAN BENNETT has had a marvelous personal appearance offer at women's clubs and auditoriums to speak on Hollywood. Think it would be a good idea. There is too little good said about our town; if Melvyn Douglas cannot get away for the Democratic convention in Chicago, his wife, Helen Gahagan, will represent him; Lucille Ball and Al Hall have again said farewell to their romance. This time it looks final.

* * *

WYNN ROCOMORA and Gertrude Neisen have taken up where they left off. Wynn's former playmate, Dorothy Lamour, is being kept very busy with Greg Bautzer, who is really crazy about her; Gene Markey has been dining almost every night with his father at the Beverly Brown Derby since his rift with Hedy. Too bad for the gals who think Gene is so attractive.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

IT WAS the general opinion in Wilton that Mrs. Moody, or her wealth, ruled the town. Now, she was determined to break the engagement of her handsome son Paul to Martha King, whom she considered socially beneath a Moody.

Paul, recently graduated from college, had always obeyed his mother. He had received offers of numerous jobs, but she had never permitted him to work.

Paul steadfastly refused to end this love affair. Nonetheless, his mother thought she had the whole matter under control, as usual.

However, she forgot Mr. Noyes, who operated a trucking business and who held the municipal garbage contract.

MONDAY MORNING, clad in overalls, handsome Paul Moody started his first job, that of collecting the town garbage in Wilton. It was afternoon when he drove the wagon up to the Moody home.

As he opened the gate he stopped short at the sight of all his possessions stacked beside the garbage can.

As he was loading them onto the wagon his mother appeared at the door.

"Paul," she said, "when, and if you ever come to your senses you may return home."

"Mother, I'm on my own now, and determined to make good," Paul replied

At the dump yards Mr. Noyes was waiting with Judge Brown, when Paul drove in, the King girl sitting beside him.

"I shall keep you on the job, Paul. Also I want to inform you that you've got fifty-thousand dollars coming to you when you reach your twenty-fifth birthday; an inheritance from your father."

"But, Mother can keep me from getting—"

"She can do nothing," Judge Brown interrupted. "The bank today loaned Mr. Noyes five thousand dollars, which is to be paid back when you get your inheritance in four years. And, Mr. Noyes is to raise your salary to a hundred dollars a month. Your dad didn't earn that when he married your mother."

"OH PAUL!" Martha King flung her arms around his neck. "Now we can live happily."

Judge Brown smiled, "When a girl can kiss a fellow smelling like he does from that garbage, that's REAL love!"

And it was so real it melted Ma Moody's resistance and she relented

LISTEN, WORLD! By Elsie Robinson

THE KID and I were talking about his modern generation and their Fixed Idea that Play is the most important thing in life. Not, mind you, that they aren't willing to work and won't turn in as energetic a job as any of their grandpas. But where as a job was grandpa's main interest, it's just a tiresome preliminary to tennis or dancing or a round of the night spots to most of the youngsters today.

Of course, it isn't hard to see how they got that way. Life was often all too "real and earnest" for their elders.

Looking today at our busted arches and withered wattles, the youngsters are naturally strong for funning while the funning's good. And I hardly blame them—though I think it's a bum hunch.

FOR TOO MUCH ga-ga can make as complete a mess of you, and as great a bore, as too much grimness.

But the Kid wouldn't agree. "You're wrong," said he. "We're not fooling ourselves; we'll drop the play stuff and take on more serious interests when the time arrives."

"Just how?" grinned I.

"Why, they'll come naturally," said he.

"Everyone knows," he continued, "that your interests change automatically with the years. You may not care much about sitting by the fire and reading a good book when you're 26, but it'll be your favorite indoor sport 30 years later. You don't have to worry, lady; we'll be as strong for The Higher Things of Life when we get around to it as any of the heavy Pillars of Society!"

But the Kid was wrong.

CULTURE AND CHARACTER JUST DON'T HAPPEN.

If you want to have higher interests in life you've got to work at the job and start early.

AFTER 57 years of snooping around, I'm convinced that most of us are born with low tastes and hang on to them "in spite of hell 'n' high water." Show me the normal he-American who doesn't secretly prefer Nick Carter to Bill Shakespeare. Or the average American female who isn't still nursing the notion that she's a potential Glamour Gal, at 43!

The truth is, we're an infantile people and our infantilism doesn't cease with our first upper-plates, either. We go right on blowing bubbles, wanting to play around—unless and until something smacks a little sense and dignity into our empty pates. And if Mr. Hitler wades across and takes us for a ride I suspect that will be one of the reasons why!

WE'VE GONE MARSHMALLOW.

Joan Tozzer Weds Today

WEARING A GOWN of French Point Lorraine lace, with a three yard train, instead of the brief colorful skating costumes which we are so accustomed to seeing her in, dainty Joan Tozzer, women's skating champion of the U. S. A., is being married today to Philip Spalding, Jr., of Honolulu . . .

Her wedding gown is made on princess lines with a Peter Pan collar, buttons down the back and a tulle and lace veil the same length as her dress . . .

The wedding is taking place at Kawaiahao, Honolulu estate of her grandmother, Mrs. George P. Castle . . . Joan's father, Alfred M. Tozzer, a Harvard professor, is giving her in marriage and Rev. Henry P. Judd is officiating . . . The reception is being given by Miss Wilhelmina Tenny . . . Winifred Sperry of Honolulu is the bride's only attendant . . .

Enjoy Dining In Town

THOUGH MANY FASHIONABLES have joined the general exodus to shore and country, it's still lively in town on a summer evening as indicated by Anne Whipple's merry smile as she sits one out at the Sheraton Roof with her escort, Richard Brickley. Anne is spending the summer with her parents in Cohasset.

Joan, whose artistic talents include a flair for designing her own distinctive skating costumes, has a unique "going away" outfit, fashioned from the same gray gabardine as her bridegroom's trousers . . . With the gabardine skirt she is wearing a colorful stripped blouse to match her hubby's shirt . . .

After a brief honeymoon the couple will be at home July 18 in their new oceanfront home on Coral ave., Pearl City, Hawaii . . .

PLANS FOR WEDDING

MRS. ALICE POST FAHNESTOCK, who is to be married soon to Robert J. Hare Powell of Newport, won't see much of Boston, her adopted city, after the end of the month . . .

A New Yorker by birth, she came here as the bride of Harris Fahnestock, socialite aviation expert, and after the termination of their marriage in 1937, stayed on here doing statistical work and medical research, and living in Chestnut Hill . . .

She is giving up her job in a few weeks and going to her parents' country estate at Bernardsville, N. J., to prepare for the wedding . . . She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allison Wright Post . . .

Her bridegroom-to-be, prominent member of Newport's most conservative social circles, is an author and playwright . . . He is a Harvard graduate.

GUESTS AT PLYMOUTH

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Grinnell of Dover and Mrs. Fremont Motley of Boston have been enjoying outdoor recreation and sightseeing in historic Plymouth, where they are guests at the Hotel Pilgrim.

Happy Birthday!

You Can Be Beautiful

Small Hand-Purse Free With Manicure Essentials

By ARLINE GOULD

IF YOU'VE always wanted a small hand-purse into which to throw change, lipstick, comb, hankie, keys, cigarettes or what-not when you dash off to some impromptu doing . . . a quick session on the golf course, a drive, or to cool off at the best refrigerated movie in town . . . take advantage of the "give away" in a new mad money case which contains some wonderful new manicure essentials.

They will be your standby, packed neatly, when traveling. And when you want to double-life the purse, just end-up the cute gadget, and tuck in whatever you require at the time.

For $1.55 you get exactly that equivalent in unsurpassable manicure stuff, and the purse is an "extra."

To tuck into it you will probably also want to get a vial of brand new type of nail polish, in many favorite shades. It's called a luminous "pearl glow" enamel which yet is not too chicki for the most conservative of you. It is twinkling but subtle. In the daylight it has the delicate gleam of pearls, in night light it seems to catch new sparkle, and is most festive. Then there is an oily non-acid remover, and a base-coat liquid which makes the polish last longer and look twice as lustrous.

All the mad money cases are made of specially processed shantung, faille, or print fabrics with bright contrasting lining that don't soil, don't become water-stained, and stay crisp under hard usage. There are inside pockets and a zippered partition for money. Take it along for your week-end hostess, because she'd probably snatch away the one you brought for yourself anyhow.

If you'd like to learn more about this intriguing "mad money" case with manicure essentials, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Salmon Versatile Menu Aide

By MARTHA LEE

SPEED is an important element in summertime cookery. All the streamlining that ready-to-serve products have to offer are welcomed these days by smart homemakers, eager to reduce the amount of time spent in warm kitchens to the minimum.

Canned salmon is an especially valuable and versatile ready-to-serve product. It is fresh ocean-caught salmon which has been hermetically sealed in cans and cooked under pressure to retain all the fresh flavor and the valuable food elements which salmon contains in such abundance—protein, calcium, phosphorus, iodine and vitamins A, D and G.

A delicious salmon entree that requires only a few minutes of broiling and tastes as savory and delicious as fresh broiled salmon, is made by marinating large flakes of canned salmon in a spice mixture for an hour, then dipping in mayonnaise dressing and bread crumbs before broiling under the hot broiler until golden brown.

Thick slices of ripe tomatoes may also be seasoned with salt and pepper and broiled along with flakes of salmon. Hot, crisp potato chips or fried new potatoes complete the main course of a tempting summer menu.

SPICED BROILED SALMON FILLETS

1 lb. canned salmon
2 tbsp. olive oil
1 tbsp. vinegar
½ tbsp. pickle spices
1 tsp. sugar
1 tbsp. lemon juice
¼ cup mayonnaise dressing
¼ cup fine bread crumbs

Separate salmon into large flakes. Combine olive oil, vinegar, spices, lemon juice and sugar. Pour mixture over salmon flakes and let stand in refrigerator for approximately one hour. When ready to broil, remove flakes of salmon from spice mixture. Dip in mayonnaise and then in bread crumbs. Place under hot broiler until well browned. Serve hot.

SCALLOPED SALMON

2 cups canned salmon
1 tbsp. lemon juice
1 tbsp. butter
3 cups soft bread crumbs
1 tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper

Remove bones and skin from salmon and flake. Sprinkle with lemon juice. Melt butter, add bread crumbs and seasonings. Arrange salmon and crumbs in alternate layers in a greased 1-quart baking dish, making the last layer crumbs. Bake in moderately hot oven (425 deg. F.) 10 to 15 minutes, until crumbs are brown. Makes 6 servings.

WHAT is it that looks smartest when tossed over classic white pique tennis shorts or frocks? Why, a hand-made cardigan featuring big, bulky patterned stitches . . . wonderful in white or all the baby shades that look so marvelous with a tan, particularly if you tie a matching ribbon in your hair! Here is a rib-hugging number, featuring a stitch that looks so difficult but actually isn't. And the pompon buttons are crocheted over one-inch button molds . . . gay and perky, with a harlequin air. The neckline is finished off with crochet, and those wide shoulders are awfully smart. For your set of knitting directions write to Annice Brink, Fashion Editor, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Dazzling Gems

By Charles McGuirk

MILLY CORD was dying. She lay on a bed in a public ward in Miseracordia Hospital and studied the ceiling with eyes that were almost sightless. She was a woman in her middle thirties and, up to a very short time ago, had been beautiful. Even now as she lay there, her blond hair haloed the pillow.

The contour of her face made nurses sigh and wish for its pleasantness. Her teeth, from which the lips fell away slightly, were strong and white. Her eyes, even without fire, were soft and alluring. There was a faint touch of color in her cheeks.

People came through the ward to visit the other patients. They hesitated a moment as they passed her bed. If there were two or more together they nudged one another and whispered.

"That's Milly Cord," they'd say. "You know, Dan Slaven's girl. Dan Slaven, the jewel robber. He's up the river doing 50 years. They say that if she'd talk, she could tell where two million dollars worth of jewels are hid. But she won't talk."

Milly didn't notice them. She lay there, looking up at the ceiling and waiting for that last visitor to come and touch her on the forehead. Oh, she knew they were there. She knew what they were whispering. But she paid no heed to them. She just lay there and waited and thought of Dan.

The Cast of Characters in "The Dazzling Gems"

DAN SLAVEN, a big-time jewel thief.

MILLY, his girl.

TOM MALCOLM, a detective charged with the job of inducing Milly to talk.

ASKS TO BE FRIEND

What was he doing now? He was in the prison library and he would be stacking books or cataloguing them. He would be reading here and there among them, dipping into them as a gourmand dips into a delicacy in a kitchen. She had seen him do it so many times when they were together.

"Listen to this, Milly," he'd say and his voice was like the singing of a violin's lower string. "This is beautiful, darling. Listen."

Through her body which was getting heedless of heat and cold there crept a vague thrill at the memory of him. She smiled a little. And the man who sat beside her bent toward her on his chair.

"What is it, Milly?" he asked gruffly. "Do you want something?"

She shook her head.

"No, Tom," her lips formed the words but there was no sound.

"Poor Tom," she thought. "He loves me so. He has been my shadow for three years now. Ever since they found Dan with me and put him away for 50 years for escaping from prison." Tom, she was sure, loved her, although he never mentioned love. He had met her in the courtroom the day they brought Dan in to be sentenced. He had stepped up to her. He told her his name, Tom Malcolm.

"I feel very badly about Slaven's being sent away, Miss Cord," he had said. "I would like to be a friend of yours, if you would allow me."

At first she had been angry at his gall. But the days passed and each one of them brought some token of him, a telephone message or a little note or a box of candy or even a delicacy like a rare turkey or fruit. She laughed at all of these things in the beginning because it was so obvious that Tom was a detective, assigned by headquarters to gain her confidence and get from her the hiding places into which Dan had thrust all those dazzling jewels. The police knew she knew where everything that Dan had stolen was hidden. Hence Tom.

But, after a while, she got used to Tom. She didn't care that he had been assigned to worm out of her the secret of the jewels' hiding places. If he was a detective, that was his duty and she couldn't blame a cop for doing his duty. But he never said anything to her about the jewels. He never said anything to her about anything, about love or wanting anything from her. Once she had asked him why he came to see her and she would never forget his answer.

"I come because I started out by being sorry for you. I knew that you were in love with Dan Slaven and I thought that you didn't have much chance of ever seeing him again. So I came to keep you from being a lonesome woman. And then I came because I——Well, because I found I liked to come. Shall we go to a picture show tonight?"

It had been that way for three years until now she supposed he was the only friend she had in the world besides Dan and Dan couldn't do anything for her from behind prison bars. Tom had done everything. He had seen that she was taken here to the hospital and that she had every attention. She knew that when she had first come here, the doctors had done everything in their power to cure her. And she had found out that they had done so on Tom's request. But there was nothing to be done. There was no cure for heartbreak. That is what she was really dying from.

CONTEMPT FOR TOM

She was aware of Tom, sitting there on the chair beside her bed saying nothing, asking nothing. She felt a faint contempt for him, for a man who would not ask her for the thing it was so obvious that he wanted, her love. Would she have given it to him? She thought for a moment coldly about it. There were times that the loneliness for Dan was so terrible that she would have done anything, anything to have escaped from some small measure of it. Once, she had told Tom something of this. But he had looked at her and his eyes were sad and his face drawn with misery.

"I don't want another man's woman," he had said gruffly. "It wouldn't be fair to you to have you spoil the picture your lover has of you."

That was when she knew that Tom loved her. She felt a slight anger at him, even now, for having been so noble. And then she forgot him and thought of Dan. She remembered the first time she ever saw him. She was a little past twenty-one then. She had gone to a night club in the Fifties. It was a speakeasy and she knew now that half the people who went there were society people and the other half were the scum of the underworld.

She was there with a college man and he was slightly drunk. He got into an argument with a waiter and the bouncing squad was advancing upon him to throw him out of the place when Dan came to the rescue. She remembered how he looked. He was in dress clothes. He was tall and broad shouldered and handsome and charming. He shouldered past the waiter who was glowering at her escort and he pushed him away. The waiter became suddenly respectful and her escort had thanked him and asked him to sit down and have a drink. He had looked at her questioningly and she had nodded.

Somehow he got her telephone number and he telephoned her the next day. Within the week, she was going out with him. He was as charming as she had thought he would be. More so. Suddenly, she learned that she was in love with him. One night he told her he loved her, but he shouldn't because nothing could ever come of it. He could never marry her. He said good-by to her that night. At the end of a month, she engineered it so that the same man who was with her when she met Dan should take her to the same night club. She found Dan was there and, shamelessly, she sent him a note. In it, she told him that it didn't matter whether he could marry her. The only thing that mattered was that she could not live without him. The next day he had called her up.

ADMITS BEING THIEF

She remembered that she was not in the least bit shocked when he told her that he was a notorious jewel thief.

"If you're a jewel thief," she had said, "I know that you are a good one."

"I am the best in New York," he had smiled, "Probably the best in the world."

She contented herself and salved her conscience refusing ever to wear a jewel he had stolen. He had offered her many of them. It wasn't good logic because he supported her and himself with the proceeds of his robberies. They lived like a king and queen, surrounded by every luxury.

That had gone on for five years. Then the relentless law caught up with him. It was at this time that she became his accomplice because he had the loot from his last burglary upon him and he had no time to get rid of it. It was a collection of diamonds stolen from the Burlingame collection. It was worth a million. He and she had hidden it under an apple tree outside a small town in New Jersey, about forty miles from New York. If she was able now, she could walk right to that place and dig up that original cache and another million in jewels besides.

Dan had escaped after serving four years of a 25-year sentence and he had been out two years. Those were delirious years when they lived together quietly without pomp. He had been forced into a big jewelry job by an old confederate who happened to recognize him. He had completed that robbery successfully. It amounted to nearly a million in jewels.

History repeated itself. Dan had been so fearful that the police would recognize his work that he stayed hidden away for two months. Then he had come out of hiding and sent word for her to meet him. When she came to the rendezvous after doubling on her tracks and criss-crossing them and going away out of her way to avoid and shake off any possible shadow, she found him waiting with a small car. She had driven with him to the cache and the next day he was arrested for the job.

SAVED FROM PRISON

Milly knew that if it wasn't for the deal Dan had made with the police, she would be in prison now herself as an accomplice. But he offered to confess to all his robberies if they would not arrest and try her as an accomplice. When they agreed, he had made a full confession but he refused to divulge the hiding place where he had cached them.

"I want you to have those jewels," he told her, "because I will never be anything but a figure behind bars to you. I want you to find another man and love him because you are only a girl. Marry some good guy. Somebody who's honest and who'll never bring you any grief. You deserve happiness, Milly, because you are the finest woman God ever made."

But she wouldn't touch a penny that could be obtained by selling those jewels. They were stolen, she told herself. She would be a crook to take them. So they had lain there ever since, these dazzling gems. She had waited. She was sure that Dan would break through and be with her again. But after a while, she realized that the bars were too strong. When she realized that, her heart began to break. Now it was broken.

She felt an icy finger on her heart and she sighed and her head fell sideways. Tom rose and bent over her and then called the doctor. Molly was dead.

An hour later, Tom walked into police headquarters.

"Molly Cord is dead, Captain," he said, "I guess I fell down on the job. She never opened up about those jewels. I'm turning in my badge."

"Pin that badge back on you," the Captain said, glaring at him, "and don't be a damn fool. If she wouldn't talk, she wouldn't talk."

THE END.

She lay there, looking up at the ceiling and waiting for that last visitor.

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

BIMELECH'S special race against The Finest and Sirocco, scheduled at Suffolk Downs tomorrow afternoon, was called off today when it appeared certain that the sloppy track would still be heavy at post time even if the weather cleared overnight. Scheduling of the race was part of President Charles F. Adams' effort to show the class of the thoroughbreds to New England racegoers. Suffolk Downs was to donate a purse of $1500 for this contest that will send three of the leading race horses away from the barrier.

C. F. ADAMS

Bimelech worked a mile and an eighth in 2:07:4 on a fast track on Monday afternoon.

Charles F. Adams had heard of this workout as had everybody else who keeps an ear to what is happening around the East Boston track. Bimelech is not eligible for the $50,000 added Massachusetts Handicap that will be run at Suffolk Downs on next Wednesday afternoon, while Col E. R. Bradley's horse was scratched out of the Yankee Handicap on account of poor track conditions that hampered his training.

Bimelech's engagement book showed that his next start was to be in the Arlington Classic in Chicago on July 20.

I talked these matters over with Charles F. Adams as we watched Monday's races from the Paddock Club.

"Why not arrange a special overnight handicap so that the people of New England can see Bimelech run?" I suggested.

"We may be able to do so," replied Adams. "I think Bimelech is the greatest of the three-year-olds, and I would like to exhibit him to the people of New England.

"I enjoyed seeing Challedon race against Many Stings, and the fact there was not any betting on the race did not take away the appeal it had with the public. Betting is a necessary part of racing, but it isn't the important part. Men like Col. Bradley, William L. Brann, Alfred Vanderbilt and Samuel Riddle are more interested in the horse as a splendid animal than they are in the money they can make out of racing. If this were not true, rich men would not lose $250,000 a year maintaining lavish racing stables."

IF ONE HAS visited the Blue Grass country of Kentucky one realizes the truth of Adams' statement. There are 558 breeding farms in the Lexington area alone with their miles of green pasture lands, rolling lawns, well constructed white barns and magnificent homes. Most of these breeding farms are owned by wealthy Americans who have made their money in other businesses.

The millionaires of the automobile industry, airplane field,

CRONIN SENDS WILSON AFTER DYKES' WHITE SOX

With Boss Joe Cronin on the bench watching Tommy Carey play short, the Red Sox opened their home stand against the West by taking a 13-inning thriller from the Chicago White Sox, when Bobby Doerr rapped out his sixth homer to break a 2-2 tie.

This doesn't necessarily mean that the Fenway pilot won't return to the lineup this p. m., if he can shake off the cold and head pains he brought back from St. Louis.

Nine out of ten big league pilots firmly believe they are inviting disaster if they voluntarily change a winning lineup but Cronin, while far from being free of superstitions, repeatedly ignores this one.

JUGGLED DOM

He broke a seven-game losing streak on the last western trip with Dom DiMaggio playing left field in place of the injured Teddy Williams. He won two of the next three games out there with "DiMag" in the lineup.

Yet, he then returned to Boston and in the first home game put Teddy the Kid back in left field.

Last Saturday, in Washington, he suddenly decided to play Di Maggio instead of "Doc" Cramer in centerfield. "Dom" was the hero of a Red Sox victory. But in the first game of the Sunday doubleheader in the Capital, "Doc" was back in there to help in hanging up a Sox triumph. Then, in the nightcap, "DiMag" was on the job again as the Hose lost.

So it will be interesting to see how Boss Joe handles himself in the present situation.

NEED CRONIN TO WIN

Will he rush back to action today, if he feels well enough, or will he rest until the Sox lose again?

There's no question but that a long absence by Cronin would be fatal to the Sox. He must be at shortstop down the stretch if the club is to remain in pennant contention.

At the same time a short vacation on the bench might do Frisco Joe a world of good.

He's been under a terrific strain since the race started what with his pitchers staggering, his hitters slumping and his critics carping. And his play has suffered.

If he could and would loaf long enough now to get his second wind, he might come back to flash top form. In that event the Sox would be mighty tough to lick.

As a bench boss, Joe batted for .000 physically, for 1.000 mentally.

PUTS SELF ON SPOT

He grew so restless in the dugout that he nominate himself to bat for Joe Heving in the 11th inning, and fanned.

As a strategist, though, he finished up covered with glory.

With two Sox on and two down in the ninth, he was in a ticklish spot.

Would he let Herb Hash, who had yielded only two runs in nine innings, go to bat or put up a pinch-hitter. He decided on the latter course, nominating Stan Spence, who failed.

Now he had to find a relief

Old Rivals Meet In Third Round Of Amateur Golf

THIRD ROUND

M. P. Merritt, Tedesco, vs. Fred Hannon, South Shore.
J. P. Lynch, Blue Hill, vs. Ted Bishop, Woodland.
Ray Marad, George Wright, vs. Jack Sheehy, Salem.
Leo Martin, Trapelo, vs. Leo Brown, Woodland.

By BILL GRIMES

WEST PEABODY, July 12—As the survivors of the first day of match play swung into the quarter finals of the 36th Massachusetts amateur championship this morning at the Salem Country Club, Ray Marad, the pride and joy of the George Wright Golf Club, is the only contestant that was in the 1939 state classic at this stage of the battle, which Teddy Adams won at Tedesco.

Ray Marad disposed of Leo Hehir, Green Hill, in the first round 7 and 5, and then came back in the afternoon with a 3 and 2 victory over Ken Corcoran, who was a pre-championship favorite to succeed Teddy Adams as the amateur king of the Bay State.

Marad is out with Jackie Sheehy, of the home club, this morning. Sheehy has been prominent in amateur golf circles since he was in his early 'teens. He put out two good golfers yesterday, "Bunny" Wilson, South Shore, and Bobby Knowles, The Country Club.

MEDALIST TWICE

The first pair sent away this morning was between Mel Merritt and Fred Hannon, the veterans of the field. Merritt has twice been medalist in state amateur championship, 1935 at Brae Burn and here. He went to the finals five years ago at Brae Burn and local predictions are that he'll duplicate that feat this week.

By a strange coincidence, Fred Hannon was the runner up to Merritt for the medal at Brae Burn.

Fred Hannon has been playing in state amateur championships since 1929, with one exception, Essex County two-years ago. From 1931 through 1936, he qualified annually and was a quarter finalist at Kernwood in '32, beating Francis "Ancy" Doyle, Green Hill, and E. P. Stratton and losing to Johnny Nies, United Shoe. Three years ago, Hannon failed to qualify and a year ago he lost out in the play off.

BEAT DEMARAIS ON 20TH

Merritt began his drive to the third round with a 4 and 3 win over A. V. Ellis, The Country Club and a 20 hole win over Mel Demarais, Haverhill. The Merritt-Demarais match was a real thriller and the veteran came from behind at the 18th to square the match with a "birdie."

Hannon's first day victims were Sam Videtta, Happy Valley, and Ed Franzeim, Bellevue. Hannon was 3 down to Videtta going to the 11th but he was all even going off the 14th green and took the 16th and 17th with pars. In his tilt with Franzeim, Hannon was 3 up at the turn and 1 down going to the 18th, where a thrilling second shot paved the way for him to square the match, which he won on the first extra hole.

Although they have been playing in state championships for years, Ted Bishop and Joe Lynch are opponents for the first time this morning.

Bishop holds two decisions over the Blue Hill representative, having beaten "Little Joe" twice in The Country Club Cup invitation.

Lynch had a close call in the first round, for although he was 4 up going to the 12th, he was only 1 up at the 18th tee. However he came through with a win and then smacked down Frank Janusas 5 and 3 in the p. m.

PALS GO TO LINE

Bishop put out Art McCarthy, North Shore, in the first round and then ran into a tartar in Gerry Anderson, Green Hill, who took him to the 18th green.

The fourth and final match of the quarter finals is between two close pals, Leo Martin, Trapelo, and Leo Brown, Woodland. The two Leos were members of Judge Joseph W. Monahan's stable for many years.

INDIAN ON WARPATH—Mel Merritt fires a full mashie at Salem as he fights to victory in his second round of match play in the state amateur title golf. Merritt drubbed Allan V. Ellis in the first match, 4 and 3, but had to travel 20 holes in the p. m. to top Mel Damarais by one up. Merritt was medalist in the 36-hole qualifications. He's a former Dartmouth athlete.

Tennis Saga

Knot-holer To Referee

NEW YORK, July 12 (AP) — Four years ago, when Bennett Glazer wanted to watch the national singles tennis championships at Forest Hills, he had to crawl through a hole in the fence.

This year, he expects to walk through the front door, for whoever heard of a referee sneaking in through fence holes, even if he is only 14 years old?

Bennett's debut as an official was made this week at the New York state clay court championships, which were to complete quarter-final round play today. A shortage of referees was worrying Dan Johnson, chairman of the tournament committee, when up stepped this 90-pound lad and asked if he could help. Johnson waved him out to the court where Charles Inslee of the University of North Carolina, and Tom Morioto of Japan were waiting to begin the match.

Bennett asked if they cared whether he refereed. They didn't, and while an amazed gallery looked on the kid steered the players through three close sets without a single beef. Johnson was so impressed that since then Bennett has been receiving arbitrating assignments regularly.

When he crossed through that fence four years ago he wasn't well known as a referee and the committee mistakenly thought he was a ball boy. They assigned him to work Helen Jacobs' matches, and she appreciated his efforts so much she gave him a tennis racquet. Later, Kay Stammers, the English star, gave him another racket.

From there his career blossomed

MR. BOSTON SAYS:

oil, candy, steel and copper have turned to horse racing for part of their recreation and social life.

The three that would have raced tomorrow come from breeding farms in Lexington. Bimelech is from Col. E. R. Bradley's Farm, Sirocco from the Dixiana Farm, and The Finest from the Glen Riddle Farm where Man O'War and War Admiral have been retired.

The owners of the three great horses are neighbors, and there is great rivalry among them as to the merits of their respective horses. They agreed to put on the special race for a $1500 purse with no betting to prove their desire to really improve the breed. Races such as this one and the recent Challendon-Many Stings contest prove there is something in racing other than betting.

HARVEY'S SUPER Photo Finish camera is being installed at the Raynham dog track . . . It will take the official pictures of the races . . . In a recent column this pillar published two pictures taken of finishes of the same race at Wonderland Park . . . One picture was taken from the outside of the track and the other from the inside of the track . . . The inside picture was taken by Harvey's Super Photo Finish camera from a location on top of the judges' stand, while the outside picture was the work of Harry I. Day's camera that is located on top of the grandstand . . . At the time, through error, it was stated that both pictures were made by the Harry I. Day camera.

Photo finishes have become a part of horse and dog racing . . . The track that fails to have the best in camera equipment cannot hope to succeed.

Despite the statements of the Armstrong camp, Hammering Henry should not have any difficulty reducing to 140 pounds for his 12-round non-title bout with Lew Jenkins at the Polo Grounds, New York, on next Wednesday night . . . Armstrong has been packing on weight during the past two years, but is still able to do 140 pounds without losing any of his strength . . . It is likely Armstrong will be a slight favorite for his tussle with Jenkins . . . Those persons who like a puncher will let their money ride with Jenkins.

The Angel has been wrestling in California . . . Paul Bowser is on the coast with the French heavyweight . . . when offered a chance to meet Steve Casey in a boxing bout, Jack Dempsey's representative said no . . . Dempsey would be unwise to risk a meeting with a young, strong grappler like Casey . . . Dempsey will restrict his athletic efforts to bouts with third raters.

Bim Race At Downs Called Off

Rain today caused the cancellation of tomorrow's special no-betting match race among Bunelesh, The Finest and Sirocco at Suffolk Downs.

The Downs track was sloppy today, and it was still raining intermittently at noon. Hence the trainers of the three horses decided that since the track would not be fast by tomorrow it would be wiser to cancel the race.

Backstretch Brevities From Downs

By TOM SHEHAN

The latest development on the Massachusetts Handicap, the sixth running of which will feature the Suffolk Downs program next Wednesday, is the decision of the George D. Widener establishment to send Eight Thirty, second highweight in the $50,000 gallop at 126 pounds, here for the big race. The chestnut son of Pilate-Dinner Time by High Time, who won $57,250 in stakes earnings last year, will be unloaded Monday afternoon . . . The last time these two met Eight Thirty finished second to the Millsdale Stable's Sun Lover, while Challedon finished third in the Kent Handicap at Delaware last year.

Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan also got word that Greentree Stable's Hash will be unloaded here Sunday . . . Brandywine Stable's Masked General and the Falaise Stable's War Dog are due on Saturday . . . While nothing has been heard about Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Nedayr, the young Maryland sportsman will be the guest of the New England Turf Writers' Association at their annual dinner Tuesday evening at the Copley Plaza Hotel, for which tickets are on public sale, and he wil probably ship that horse up to see his colors in the race.

Freddie Smith turned in a good ride on E. R. Bradley's Bow Low when he won the fourth race with the bay daughter of Black Toney-Clonaslee who went to the post an odds on choice . . . The ride was a delightful contrast to his effort with Big Bluff on Wednesday . . . He hustled the Bradley filly up into the contention on the turn, saved considerable ground heading for home, and had her across the line with plenty to spare as she became the first favorite to score since Tuesday.

The Jockey's Community Fund and Guild are considering plans for a dance during the Narragansett meeting . . . The Hollywood Chapter, headed by Lester Balaski, will play a softball game for charity this month out on the coast . . . Johnny Del Isola, former Everett High and Fordham footballer who plays guard for the New York Giants and sells sporting goods on the side, visited Charley Stevenson at the Downs on Wednesday . . . Stevenson is a pro football fan and attends the Giants' games in New York during the fall.

Willie Doyle, Hart Dernham, and Sidney Brown were talking about trainer's and their methods of conditioning horses yesterday and among the horses mentioned as having been worked extremely hard was the great horse Cantar who is now a fair sire. "There is no telling how good he was," said Willie Doyle. "About every time you turned around he was working a mile in 1:35 and some odd change. He was a tough horse."

Which recalled to Hart Dernham's that Morvich used to get his share of works when he was at his best. "That's right," said Sidney Brown," he was a real good horse."

Dixiana Farm's Night Glow was not sent to Chicago for the Lassie Stakes because of a bruised heel . . . Willie Yarberry rode Ida Rogers in the second race for his first mount of the meeting . . . Confiardo arrived for the Paul Revere and was bedded down . . . Bobby Lipson, a 12-year-old Providence boy, saw his colors carried to the post for the first time by Cadet Bob an Wednesday . . . Jerome H. Loucheim is here for the Massachusetts Handicap . . . Miss Gallant was disqualified for coming over on Portsmouth at the far turn and causing that horse to go to his knees and unload Albert Bodiou . . . The later was not seriously hurt, suffering cuts on his nose and leg . . . Portsmouth was taken out of the race via the claiming route by Mrs. L. B. Bellew, Sr. . . . Ted Atkinson, who was riding Miss Gallant, was suspended for the remainder of the meeting.

All-Star Poll Opens

CHICAGO, July 12 (AP)—Balloting began today in the nation-wide poll to name the 1940 college football squad which will oppose Green Bay's Packers, professional champions, in Chicago's Seventh Annual All Star game at Soldier Field the night of Aug. 29.

At the close of the poll, July 23, the eleven receiving the most votes will be delegated to start against the Packers.

To qualify for the All Star game a player must have completed his college eligibility last year.

After the player squad is determined, another poll to select the All Star coaches will be held. Leading vote getters from each of five areas—the East, South, Far West, Western Conference and the Midwest area outside the Big Ten—will comprise the five-man coaching staff.

In this year's polls, the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the event directed by the Chicago Tribune sports editor, Arch Ward, will have the cooperation of 385 newspapers and radio stations in 47 states and the District of Columbia. Delaware is not represented.

The All Stars and pro title holders are all square after six battles, each having won two, lost two and tied two. The New York Giants won last year, 9 to 0, to give the professionals their second victory.

14-Year-Old Angler Tells of Day Spent With Veteran of Sea

(Today's Dark Montreal guest columnist is Billy Conway, 14-year-old Scituate angler and the fishing member of the family of Sports Editor Jack Conway. Everywhere along our coast during the summer months the young fellows who love fishing and the sea turn for experience to the old fellows who still love fishing and the sea, and Billy is no exception in his story of his quest for mackerel and lobster with John Sandstrom, 75-year-old Scituate lobsterman. Other youthful members of the angling fraternity who have interesting experiences to relate are invited to send along their contributions.—Dark Montreal.)

By BILLY CONWAY

During the summer months I like to do some salt water fishing. I naturally turned to my friend, Mr. John Sandstrom, a Scituate lobsterman, who has devoted his life to following the sea. He tells me he is 75 years of age. He does not look that old. He may usually be found in the early morning in his boat outside of Scituate Harbor.

John Bradley accompanied us as we turned our small boat, ideal for fishing mackerel, outside of Scituate Harbor, at 4 a. m. o'clock of a recent morning.

At the entrance to the harbor and along the rocky shore I noticed groups of men frantically raking in moss. These men are only able to work at low tide, and they must move rapidly to accomplish their purpose.

As we moved outside of the harbor, we dropped over our lines. I used a yellow and blue lure, and felt confident I would meet with success. Mr. Sandstrom had told me that he had caught quite a few mackerel the previous morning.

HOOKS FOUR POUNDER

We could see a fisherman in a small boat pulling in one line after another.

"He's getting mackerel," said Mr. Sandstrom.

The mackerel were not biting where we were located, and Mr. Sandstrom moved his boat in near a shoal.

Almost instantly I felt a bite, and pulled in my line and was rewarded with a four pound mackerel.

Mr. Sandstrom then felt a pull at his line and let go of the wheel of the boat as he pulled in a mackerel.

"I would rather steer the boat than fish," said John Bradley, and he took over the wheel while Mr. Sandstrom and myself continued fishing.

We got a good catch of mackerel during the next half-hour. The mackerel weighed between two and four pounds each.

There is considerable rivalry between the lobsterman as to who catches the most fish, and as to who gets the most lobsters.

HAULED LOBSTER TRAPS

After we got a good catch of mackerel, we got down to the real business of the morning, which was the hauling of lobster traps.

The traps were located near the rocks which were frequently under the cliffs that make Scituate's coast line so attractive. The lobsters shed their shells among the rocks which is the reason the pots are dropped there.

The traps were situated in rows of four, and were usually three deep. One row was among the rocks, a second row a short distance off the rocks, and a third row about 20 yards away from the second. These are called one string.

Another string of pots will be located off the next group of rocks. During the shedding season, each lobsterman lays three or four strings.

There are certain regulations on the taking of lobsters from the sea. A lobster under nine inches and a half must be returned to the water, while a female lobster with seed also must be returned to the water.

CRABS EAT BAIT

Our first set of traps yielded two five pounders, and four lobsters about a pound and a half each. From the remainder of the pots we hauled three four-pounders, and six lobsters that weighed a pound and a half each.

Mr. Sandstrom returned quite a few "shorts" to the water.

When the traps are located near the rocks, the crabs eat a great deal of the bait. As many as a dozen and a half crabs were hauled in one trap.

We had all of the traps hauled by 9 o'clock. We did not have to be back in the harbor until 10:30 a. m. when we were to pick up lobster bait. So we decided to troll for mackerel.

Luck was certainly with us for we soon had a couple of strikes. Once more we started to pull in mackerel.

It was interesting to note that as soon as one boat hit a school of mackerel other parties appeared from nowhere to join in the sport.

LOBSTER RUNNING HIGH

At 10 o'clock we hauled in our tackle and headed for home.

On the way back into the harbor Mr. Sandstrom told me that lobster must bring 17 cents a pound before he makes any money.

"I make my own lobster pots during the winter months," he said. "I also prepare my rope. During a storm or when a big boat cuts too close to shore we often lose many traps.

"Lobster is now bringing 25 cents a pound, which makes my business profitable. As man and boy I have been around the sea. This is the first year I have ever used a pulley in hauling in my traps. When a man becomes 75 years of age he has to take things a little easier."

'Buck' Belted

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Buck Newsom, Tigers pitcher, and Bob Ruark, Washington sports writer (Washington Daily News), came to blows at Griffith Stadium.

Shortly before game time Ruark entered the Detroit club house, and Newsom made a verbal attack on him for something he had written. Ruarke landed a light left on Newsom's jaw, but Detroit players pried them apart before hostilities went any further.

Indians Retake Lead From Tigers By Turning Back Athletics, 8 to 5

PHILADELPHIA, July 12 (INS)—Ken Keltner's seventh-inning homer with two on base provided the margin of victory as Cleveland turned back the Athletics, 8 to 5.

The triumph enabled Cleveland to take the American League lead from Detroit which lost to Washington.

Ben Chapman poled a home run in the first inning and Lou Boudreau got one in the third for the Indians, while Frank Hayes smashed a four-bagger for Philadelphia in the eighth. The Indians collected 15 hits and the A's made seven.

Al Milnar, replaced by Dobson, was the winning pitcher. Chubby Dean, who was relieved by Heusser, was charged with the defeat.

NEW YORK, July 12 (INS)—Slugging by Red Rolfe and Joe Gordon paced the Yankees to a 6 to 4 success over St. Louis.

Rolfe walloped a three-run homer and two triples in the 10-hit New York assault to which Gordon also contributed a circuit blow.

A double, an error, a walk and two outs brought the Browns two runs in the eighth inning. St. Louis rallied for two more tallies in the ninth when Marius Russo walked two, hit a batter and yielded a single. Bump Hadley rescued Russo who gave only three hits.

WASHINGTON, July 12 (INS)—Sid Hudson notched his fifth straight victory as the Senators trounced Detroit, 7 to 3, dropping the Tigers into second place in the American League and enabling Cleveland to take the lead.

Hudson got a double during the four-run rally in the second inning when 19-year-old Harold Newhouser was reached for four hits. Washington made a run off Freddie Hutchinson in the third and two more in the sixth.

Detroit scored a run apiece in the third, seventh and eighth.

ST LOUIS, July 12 (AP)—The third-place New York Giants scored no runs on two hits, a walk and two errors by Joe Orengo in the eleventh inning to defeat the St. Louis Cardinals last night, 3 to 6.

CINCINNATI, July 12 (AP)—In a game started in the rain the Reds trimmed Brooklyn, 6 to 5, last night running their victories to six straight and increasing their lead to a length and a half over the second place Dodgers.

With first place at stake, Cincinnat batters jumped on three Flatbush hurlers for 11 hits to give Bucky Walters his 12th victory of the season and his third in a row.

CRONIN'S JUGGLING LUCK STILL RIDING HIGH

pitcher who could hold the enemy in check to escape having the second-guessers blister his hide for removing Hash.

He selected Joe Heving. The Covington fireman set three batters down in order in the 10th and again in the 11th.

In the last of the 11th, the home Hose were again in a position where a base hit with two out would give them the decision.

It was here that Boss Joe decided to go to bat for Heving.

And when he whiffed, he had to make another important pitching decision.

DICKMAN COMES THROUGH

He nodded to Emerson Dickman.

The Buffalo boy had a few anxious moment in both the 12th and 13th, but the pilot's judgment was finally vindicated when Doerr unloaded.

Joe was a bit groggy when it was all over.

He tossed a towel he was wearing around his neck high in the air. That was as much a gesture of relief as of joy that his charges had prevailed against the star-spangled pitching of Johnny Rigney.

In the clubhouse, he wouldn't hazard a guess as to when he'd return to the lineup. But he was definite on one point.

He'll send Black Jack Wilson out to pitch against Jack Knott in the second game of the engagement this p. m.

The Sox put over two runs in the third without making a hit.

Johnny Peacock walked, Hash sacrificed and both runners were safe when John Dungan's throw to second arrived too late for the force.

That bunt having worked so well, Carey tried the same thing. And it worked even better.

Kuhel picked up this roller and, trying to throw to third, pegged to leftfield.

Thus Peacock scored and Hash raced to third, from where he was rescued by a Cramer fly to center.

KUHEL HOMER

The Pale Hose got one of those runs back in the fourth, when Joe Kuhel propelled his 13th homer into the new right field seats along the foul line. They knotted the count in the eighth by virtue of a double by Taft Wright and a single by Luke Appling with two out.

Actually, they should have doubled that run total in the first eight innings.

For example, Kuhel opened the sixth with a single and "Moose" Solters followed with a double off the leftfield wall. Kuhel could have walked to third with the tying run and watched Solters take the winning run to second with nobody out. Instead he tried to score on the bingle and was cut down at the plate.

Then there was the eighth. Before the Wright double and Appling single, Solters had walked. He wasn't on to be rescued by those hits because he tried to steal.

In justice to our side, however, it must be added that a stiff East wind, which suddenly put in an appearance to chase the three-day heat wave, prevented three homers by Jimmy Foxx, another by Teddy Williams and a second by Hero Doerr.

"Double X" doubled off the bullpen screen in the first, chased Kreevich back to the centerfield wall in the sixth and sent Wright scooting to the rightfield barrier in the eighth. With a favorable wind or no breeze at all, all three drives would have cleared the parapets.

So would have a Williams smash to Wright in the eighth and a double which Doerr blasted against the leftfield barrier in the ninth.

A rather drab, uninteresting contest until the score became knotted, it developed into a thriller as the rivals battled to break the deadlock.

Tabor and Carey made a series of sensational stops and throws in the overtime frames, while Foxx came up with a most timely and spectacular save.

The White Sox didn't have much to do except in the 12th, when they did plenty.

With the sacks jammed with Cronimen, Jimmy Webb, old Indians' shortstop making his first local appearance as a Chicago second-sacker, leaped high for Finney's hopper and shot the ball to the plate in time to force Carey. Then Kennedy, at third, came up with a nice stop of a Tabor grounder.

All that, though, was wasted effort after Robert Pershing Doerr unloaded in the 13th.

BEES CHASE CHICAGO JINX, SEND POSEDEL AFTER CUBS

CHICAGO, July 12—Having shaken that Chicago jinx that has pursued them all season at Wrigley Field, the Bees hope to ring up their second straight over the Hartnett outfit with Sailor Bill Posedel doing the chucking this afternoon.

If Posedel can duplicate the effectiveness he showed in whipping the Dodgers last Sunday the Cubs are due for trouble.

Verne Olson, southpaw rookie, will do the flinging for the home club.

FIRST WIN IN CHICAGO

The two teams opened their series with a doubleheader yesterday and the Cubs after taking the opener, 8 to 2, bowed to the Bees in the nightcap, 2 to 1, in a mound duel that went 10 innings.

This second game triumph was the first the Bees have registered over the Cubs in Chicago this year and the third of the season, while the Cubs have nine wins to more than balance the ledger.

That Chicago jinx which has stymied the Bees all season was very much in evidence during the first game of the twin bill.

Lefty Joe Sullivan, making his first start since that memorable relief effort in the 20-inning struggle with the Dodgers last week, just didn't have it yesterday. After yielding two runs and six hits before four innings were completed, Manager Casey Stengel realized it wasn't Sully's day and sent Nick Strincevich to the hill.

Nick was touched up for six more hits and the remaining runs.

The nightcap was quite a different story. Larry French and Dick Errickson hooked up in a real old fashioned mound duel.

Both clubs had few opportunities until the ninth, and when the occasions arose both French and Errickson responded perfectly to keep those goose eggs in action.

NICHOLSON AGAIN

In the ninth, Sisti started the trouble with a single to left and Johnny Cooney laid down the much desired sacrifice. Up came Gene Moore and he blasted a single to right which enabled the fleet footed Sisti to score without any too much trouble.

That one run loomed large until that troublesome Mr. Nicholson came to bat in the Cubs' half of the ninth and tripled to right. Then Augie Galan followed with a double to left, and home came Nicholson with the tieing run. Errickson then settled down and into extra innings went the ball game.

Miller opened the tenth with a double. The best Berres could do was to ground out to Mattick but Errickson beat out a hit sending Miller to third. Sisti then flied deep to Gleeson and in galloped the Bees shortstop with the winning run.
